The Star Bargain Store

Shirt Waists.

The big demand we are having for shirt waists shows that we have the right styles, and that our prices are the lowest in the city. We got in more new ones this week. 25 more silk shirt waists, in different shades, at $2.50. A new line of silk waists in dress style and shirt waist style, worth $7.50, we will sell at $4.98, which is less than you can buy the material alone.

Wash Goods.

Our trade is delighted with our line of wash goods, and more so with our price, which is always below others. 10c dimity, our price 6c. 12½c dimity, our low price 8c. Our 10c and 12½c line cannot be matched for 15c. Lappert stripes, the newest thing in wash goods, worth 25c, our price 15c. Very fine organdie for 25c, sold everywhere for 39c. Our line of white goods in plain, checks and stripes, is the largest, and the prices the lowest. White organdies at 15c, 19c and 22½c, worth a good deal more.

House Furnishings.

We have sold more than twice as many curtains this season than we ever did before. The reason is plain. Our selection and prices are not to be matched anywhere. Our prices begin at 33c for a 50c curtain and go up to $5.50. Our $1, $1.49 and $2.25 lines are our great leaders, and they are worth from 50c to a $1 a pair more. A yard wide draperies for 9c. Lawns at 5c, 7c, 9c, 10c and 12½c a yard. Tapestry curtains and covers at away down prices. Tapestry for furniture recovering at 39c a yard, worth 60c. $1.25 quality, our price 75c. $2.50 quality for $1.50. A nice line of rugs at about half regular prices.

New Things for Saturday.

100 pieces of the latest styles of ribbons, in checks, stripes, gauze, changeable taffeta and watered, at prices that will interest you. New belts, new shirt waists sets, the newest things in neckwear, chiffon rushing in all shades, new laces and insertions, white collars and cuffs, 50 dozen of ladies' sailors, from 23c to 75c. Children's sailors and leghorns, from 19c and up; and many other things which we have no place to enumerate.

If you care to save your hard earned money come straight to us for everything in our line.

PRESBYTERIANS DIDN'T LIKE IT

And the Rev. Harvey G. Furbay Was Invited to Resign His Charge In Philadelphia—A Bicycle Figure In the Little Episode.

A special from Philadelphia to the morning papers has a story which will be read with interest by many persons in this city. It is as follows: "Rev. Harvey G. Furbay, Ph. D., who was introduced here from Tyrone, Pa., a year ago as pastor of the Oxford Presbyterian church, has been asked to resign. This he has declined to do, and there is trouble in the church. Recently a committee from the congregation called upon him and asked him to hand in his resignation.

"The doctor was told that he lacked a proper appreciation of the dignity which should characterize a minister of the gospel. Objections were also made to his parting his hair in the middle, smoking the offending cigarette and riding a bicycle. Some, he was told, criticized his sermons. The doctor promptly declined to resign, on the ground that the charges made against him were of a trifling nature and indicated 'childish animosity.'

"Dr. Furbay came here from Tyrone, Pa., where he had charge of the Presbyterian church for three years. The Oxford church was looking for a pastor and a committee, who went to Tyrone, was favorably impressed with the young minister, and a little over a year ago the members of the Oxford church at a congregational meeting decided to call Doctor Furbay. He has been popular with the young people ever since he has been pastor of the Oxford church.

"The minister's first wife died at Tyrone over a year ago, leaving him several children. A week ago last Wednesday Doctor Furbay was married to Miss Helen Churchill at her home, Lawrence, Mass.

"Doctor Furbay when seen by a reporter would not discuss the matter. He declined to say whether or not he had been advised to resign. As to the allegations made against him that he smoked cigarettes and rode a wheel he admitted the impeachment as to the cigarettes, but declared that he never smoked in the streets. He denied that he any longer rode a bicycle."

In the spring of 1891 when the Rev. Dr. Marshall was in Europe, Rev. H. G. Furbay occupied his pulpit at the First Presbyterian church several times and made many friends while here. He was a genial young gentleman and a favorite.

HE CALLED HIM DOWN.

He Bluffed on His Size and Was Badly Left.

The bluffer attempts to pose as a gentleman, and calls himself an artist (?). He is a failure in every line but those of conceit, bluff and braggadocio. His promises are like pie crust—made to be broken. His failure to act the part of an honorable man has brought him into disrepute, and "failure" is written upon his record. He tried to vent his hate, malice and venom upon a gentleman not half his size the other day, accusing the latter of speaking evil respecting him, and thus hurt his character (?). and prospects. The bluffer struck a snag and received a calling down which he will remember for all time to come. The very air was hot and the atmosphere pregnant with brimstone, and the meddlesome bully sneaked away, an abject specimen of nothing. He resides in East Liverpool. Selah.

A PITIFUL STORY

Was Told by a Little Girl Begging In Seventh Street.

Last evening a little girl, between the age of ten and eleven years, was walking in Seventh street begging for a loaf of bread. The child told an unusually pitiful tale. She said that at her home they had not had anything to eat for several hours, and her name was Gloss, and her father had been dead for a number of years, while her mother was ill and unable to work. She had no trouble in securing the bread, but whether the story she told is the truth is another question, as the child absolutely refused to tell where she lived.

LAUNCHED A BOAT.

It Was Only Done After a Great Deal of Work.

Nellie Roberts, the steam yacht owned by George F. Brunt, was launched yesterday afternoon amid great excitement. The yacht has been lying beside the office at the knob works during the winter, and it was no small job to slide it into the river. The inspectors have been notified, and they are expected to be here in a few days to go over the boat.

THIS SOUNDS RIGHT

An East Liverpool Business Man Speaks Out.

The following conversation occurred in the front office of the NEWS REVIEW, a prominent and wide-awake business man of this city addressing Manager Palmer with:

"Make a close estimate on that work, as your competitors have given me a figure, and they are hewing the chips mighty fine. I want nice work and I want it put down to hard pan."

The lowest figures for good work and good material were given him, and met response with:

"Well, I can get the job done elsewhere in the city at a margin less, but I like your work and will give you the preference. Go ahead and hustle her out. Your job man is an artist, and his style and make up suits me to a nicety. There is no doubt of the fact that you turn out dandy nice job work. There's another feature I like about your establishment—you give a customer his job at the time promised."

The above are certainly kind words, and we appreciate them fully. The aim of this office is to turn out superior work, at legitimate prices, and our merchants, business men, and patrons in general, will each and all be accorded one universal price. Fair play is a jewel, and we work from this standpoint, confident that such a system will win in the long run, despite all the trickery, falsehood, low cunning and misrepresentation of even his satanic majesty. Selah.

SOUTH SIDE PICNICS.

Three Committees Were In the City Looking at the Ground.

There were three committees in the city today looking at the Rock Spring resort, preparatory to making dates for picnics. The committees represented the Protected Home circle, of New Brighton, the same band from New Castle and the Methodist Episcopal church of New Brighton. The Sixth U. P. church of Allegheny, will hold its outing July 7, at this place. The first picnic of the season will be held on May 29. The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen from Pittsburg, Alliance, Allegheny and surrounding towns, have selected July 10, to come to the spring. This, no doubt, will be the largest outing of the season.

The merchants of Beaver Falls will also picnic here, but the date has not been selected.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Professor Harper Has Made All His Preparations.

Those who were so unfortunate as to miss the last glee club concert will have the opportunity next week of listening to the famous Western University of Pennsylvania Glee and Instrumental Clubs, one of the largest college organizations in the country.

The sale of seats opens tomorrow at Will Reed's drug store with the prices at 25c, 50c and 75c.

Professor Harper announces that this will be the last concert of the season and also guarantees that without exception it will be the best and most popular of the year.

HURT THE CATCHER.

First Accident of the Season at the Ball Grounds.

The ball game yesterday afternoon, between the business college and high school teams, was an exciting contest. Davis, who was catching, had his head cut, in the second inning, by a foul tip striking the mask, and he was compelled to retire. The playing of Wallace, Colclough and Tarr were features of the game. The score:

R. H. E.
B. C. 1 2 4 0—8 7 9
H. S. 3 2 4 3—12 10 6

Batteries: B. C.—O'Donnell, Davis, Finch; H. S.—Gamble and McClure. Umpire, Lynch.

McGavern Case Settled.

A telephone message from Lisbon at a late hour this afternoon, says the case of McGavern vs. Priestoffer was settled, by the defendant paying the costs and a consideration. The suit was for damages caused by McGavern losing a finger in the door of Priestoffer's saloon.

Hit a Wagon.

A wagon owned by W. H. Surles was hit by the pony on the Horn switch late this afternoon. The driver jumped, and the horses escaped. The wagon was mashed.

TO INSTRUCT TRUSTEES

The McKinley Club Will Meet This Evening.

TALK OF REOPENING THE ROOMS

A Movement is on Foot to Have the Organization Once More What It Has Been For Several Years—Consolidation Suggested, and May Be Carried Out.

A meeting of the McKinley club has been called for this evening, and upon what the members decide to do depends the fate of the organization.

The meeting is for the purpose of considering plans for the future. There is a strong element within the organization opposed to closing the rooms and the summer vacation, and it is the intention to decide tonight upon the time when they will be reformed and reopened, and active operations will be renewed. The trustees tonight will be instructed to confer with those outside parties who are desirous of enjoying political club life, and see what arrangements can be made toward a consolidation of interests. There are a number of Republicans in the city who believe that it should have a distinctively Republican organization whose rooms will be open at all reasonable times, and it is probable that the consolidation of interests will result in an organization more powerful than any the city has ever had.

OHIO ENDEAVORERS

Will This Year Meet in Convention at Dayton.

The Ohio State Christian Endeavor convention will be held this year in Dayton on June 22-24. There will be an excellent program, made up of the best addresses, papers and music that can be secured. Some new and interesting features may be expected—as, for example, a patriotic mass meeting at the National Soldiers' home. More time than usual will be given to the denominational rallies, which are to be held on Thursday afternoon. Eminent speakers of Ohio and other states will be present to give inspiration by their addresses. All Endeavorers are welcome. While the entertainment is not free, as heretofore, arrangements are being made for lodging and board at the lowest possible rates.

A TANYARD SEWER.

A Councilman Thinks It Will All End That Way.

A member of council, last evening, in speaking of the Eighth street culvert to a reporter, said: "In my opinion this business will wind up in the sewer of Tanyard run its entire length, and I think it is nothing more than what ought to be done. Still there are a great many things to be taken into consideration before council takes final action on the subject. I would like very much to get some expression from the people before casting my ballot on a matter so important."

Council meets this evening to view the culvert and inspect the run, and the subject will be thoroughly discussed.

NOT MOVING RAPIDLY.

The Prohibitionists Have Not Circulated Their Petition.

Although the Prohibitionists have nominated a county ticket and have declared their intention of making the fight of their lives in this campaign, they have as yet made no move to get a place on the ballot. To do this they must send to the secretary of state a petition signed by the number of voters required in the law. A prominent member of the party said today that petitions would soon be circulated, and he could see no reason why the names would not be secured long before the appointed time.

OUT OF SIGHT

Drops the Vision of a Big Window Glass Plant.

The new window glass plant which proposed to locate in this city has dropped entirely out of sight. The parties here who interested themselves in the matter last week wrote to the projectors of the plant and informed them that they were tired of spending their time and money on a wild goose chase and they didn't care to hear window glass plant again. They have received no word since that letter, and the probabilities are they will not.

REMEMBERED PROFESSOR COOPER.

The Students Gave Him a Smoking Set.

Yesterday was the anniversary of Professor Cooper's birth, and in the afternoon the pupils gathered at the college to give him a pleasant surprise.

Miss Nellie Tarr, in a neat speech on behalf of the pupils, presented him with a handsome gold smoking set, to which they adjourned to West End park, where the students met defeat in a ball game, but had a most enjoyable afternoon.

BICYCLE ACCIDENTS.

There Were More Than the Usual Number.

Bicycle accidents were numerous last evening. A large crowd assembled in Sixth street to watch Billy Davidson take a ride on a racing wheel. With some assistance he was able to mount, but could not turn. When he reached the corner of Broadway the bicycle headed for a telephone pole, and Billy called for somebody to stop him, but to no effect, and he fell off in order to save the wheel. He walked home amid the applause of the people.

C. L. Gray attempted to make a pedal mount in Broadway, but in some way got mixed up with the wheel. He was bruised considerably.

Willie Blythe and Cracker Davidson, while riding down Fifth street, last evening, came together. Both boys fell hard, and the rear wheel of Blythe's bicycle looked as though it had passed through a first class clay press.

ATTACKED BY A COW.

Rev. R. B. Whitehead Had an Experience in Braddock.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette of this morning says:

"A cow belonging to Rev. R. B. Whitehead, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church at Braddock, severely gored the reverend gentleman yesterday. Mr. Whitehead was just through giving it a drink out of a bucket, and stooped to pick the bucket up, when the animal plunged at him and with its horns gored him in the cheek."

STRANGE FATALITY

Three Members of Squire Rose's Family Died in a Few Weeks.

Squire Rose left today for Rootstown, Portage county, to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. France who died Monday evening from hemorrhages, aged 62 years. A large family, all grown, are left to mourn her death. This makes three deaths in the Rose family since March 18. March 19 the squire's mother died and just two weeks ago last Sunday the husband of Mrs. France was laid to rest.

THE POPULATION INCREASES.

Assessor John Anderson Finds a Great Many Children.

John Anderson, assessor in the Second ward, has almost completed his work, and finds that the population of his portion of the city is increasing at a splendid rate. A comparison with what he did last year shows that almost double the number of children were born in the ward than in the same time before his last visit. They are well scattered through the ward.

ON A NEW LINE.

S. C. Whittenberger to Become an Oil Operator.

S. C. Whittenberger will this week quit the saloon business. With Mr. Bucheit he has leased 165 acres of land, and will go into the oil business at Sistersville. He will also begin the manufacture of horseshoes in partnership with James Gillespie. They have recently patented a double horseshoe which, when placed on the market, promises to be a rapid seller.

SPLIT HIS FINGER.

An Accident Rendered Peck Carnahan Unfit For Work.

Peck Carnahan, the well known football player, is nursing a badly mashed finger. Last night while unloading beer at the ice plant a barrel slipped and rolled on a finger of his right hand, splitting it from end to end. The wound was dressed by a physician, but it will be several days before he is able to do any work.

HOME FROM FLORIDA.

S. H. Porter and Family Have Returned to the City.

S. H. Porter and family have returned from their sojourn in Florida, and are again numbered among the residents of this city. Miss Martha Porter, who was injured in an accident a few months ago, has entirely recovered. Their stay in the south was unusually pleasant.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Our Delegation at the Infirmary Are All Well.

The township trustees failed to transact all their business while at the infirmary yesterday, and refused to give out anything for publication. They report all the inmates of the poorhouse from this city in first-class spirits and enjoying the best of health.

ONE CASE IS FINISHED

The Grand Jury Has Disposed of Malone.

NO REPORT UNTIL TOMORROW

The Jury Discussed the Lisbon Boys Who Are Charged With Assaulting a Companion, and the Robison Murder Is on This Afternoon.

LISBON, April 29.—[Special]—The grand jury this afternoon took up the case of Z. S. Robison, charged with murdering his wife in East Liverpool last Saturday night.

The jury disposed of the case of Pat Malone last night, but no report was made, nor will there be one until the matter now before them is finished. This morning the evidence against the boys charged with beating a Lisbon youth until he was almost in a dying condition was taken, and Robison came up this afternoon. A number of Liverpool people are here for the purpose of giving testimony. It is thought the jury will not be able to report until late tomorrow afternoon.

Robison has improved wonderfully since being brought to jail. He thought he was being taken to a dungeon where he would be ill-treated and abused, and for a while was sick. When Deputy Bick suggested he bring a doctor he said:

"I don't suppose a doctor could do me any good. I am heartbroken about my wife."

The deputy, however, brought the doctor and Robison was given some medicine. This morning Bick had a long talk with the prisoner, and advised him to cheer up and make the most of it. He was provided with newspapers and magazines, and now seems to have forgotten his trouble. His appetite is good, and he is physically and mentally much better.

CONSUMPTION

Caused the Death of John Kinney This Morning.

John Kinney died this morning, at his home in Oblique street, after an attack of consumption, aged 33 years. Deceased has been ill for many years, and spent a year in the west in the hope of regaining his health, but six months ago returned home to die. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The funeral will take place Monday morning at 8:30, from the Catholic church.

On the River.

The river is rising, and has now reached the 7.3 foot mark.

Passed up—Ben Hur, Relief, Jim Wood, John Moren; passed down—Hudson.

A number of young people from Pittsburg and Philadelphia were on the Hudson, last night, going to Nashville. The party was being chaperoned by Mrs. G. Larson. D. McDevitt and wife, of this city, were also passengers.

A Short Rest.

The gas engine at the Thomas machine shops broke down yesterday, and the employees were compelled to take a half-day's rest. It was repaired late last evening.

A number of the employees of the Sebring decorating department are loafing this afternoon, on account of having no space in which to put the ware.

Association Athletics.

This is the last week of indoor exercises at the Young Men's Christian association until next September. The vacant lot in the rear of the building is being cleaned, and will be used as an exercise field.

Director Morris will organize a baseball club as soon as a number of college boys return home.

Awnings Still With Us.

It is still a matter for wonder on the part of ex-Councilman Peake, why the wooden awnings have not been torn down. Council ordered the marshal to notify the owners of all awnings of this kind, to remove them almost a month ago, but as yet there has been nothing done.

An Entertainment.

An excellent entertainment was given at the African M. E. church last night. The house was crowded, and the program good. Another will be given this evening. Reverend Carson is raising money to be used in repairing the church.

He Did, She Didn't.

A young lady was riding her bike in upper Broadway last evening, and got in a collision by yelling to a young man riding in the opposite direction to keep to the right. He did so, but she didn't, with the above result.

Will This Year Meet In Convention at Dayton.

The Ohio State Christian Endeavor convention will be held this year in Dayton on June 22-24. There will be an excellent program, made up of the best addresses, papers and music that can be secured. Some new and interesting features may be expected—as, for example, a patriotic mass meeting at the National Soldiers' home. More time than usual will be given to the denominational rallies, which are to be held on Thursday afternoon. Eminent speakers of Ohio and other states will be present to give inspiration by their addresses.

All Endeavorers are welcome. While the entertainment is not free, as heretofore, arrangements are being made for lodging and board at the lowest possible rates.

A TANYARD SEWER.

A Councilman Thinks It Will All End That Way.

A member of council, last evening, in speaking of the Eighth street culvert to a reporter, said: "In my opinion this business will wind up in the sewer of Tanyard run its entire length, and I think it is nothing more than what ought to be done. Still there are a great many things to be taken into consideration before council takes final action on the subject. I would like very much to get some expression from the people before casting my ballot on a matter so important."

Council meets this evening to view the culvert and inspect the run, and the subject will be thoroughly discussed.

NOT MOVING RAPIDLY.

The Prohibitionists Have Not Circulated Their Petition.

Although the Prohibitionists have nominated a county ticket and have declared their intention of making the fight of their lives in this campaign, they have as yet made no move to get a place on the ballot. To do this they must send to the secretary of state a petition signed by the number of voters required in the law. A prominent member of the party said today that petitions would soon be circulated, and he could see no reason why the names would not be secured long before the appointed time.

OUT OF SIGHT

Drops the Vision of a Big Window Glass Plant.

The new window glass plant which proposed to locate in this city has dropped entirely out of sight. The parties here who interested themselves in the matter last week wrote to the projectors of the plant and informed them that they were tired of spending their time and money on a wild goose chase and they didn't care to hear window glass plant again. They have received no word since that letter, and the probabilities are they will not.

REMEMBERED PROFESSOR COOPER.

The Students Gave Him a Smoking Set.

Yesterday was the anniversary of Professor Cooper's birth, and in the afternoon the pupils gathered at the college to give him a pleasant surprise.

Miss Nellie Tarr, in a neat speech on behalf of the pupils, presented him with a handsome gold smoking set, to which he replied in a fitting manner, and then they adjourned to West End park, where the students met defeat in a ball game, but had a most enjoyable afternoon.

BICYCLE ACCIDENTS.

There Were More Than the Usual Number.

Bicycle accidents were numerous last evening. A large crowd assembled in Sixth street to watch Billy Davidson take a ride on a racing wheel. With some assistance he was able to mount, but could not turn. When he reached the corner of Broadway the bicycle headed for a telephone pole, and Billy called for somebody to stop him, but to no effect, and he fell off in order to save the wheel. He walked home amid the applause of the people.

C. L. Gray attempted to make a pedal mount in Broadway, but in some way got mixed up with the wheel. He was bruised considerably.

Willie Blythe and Cracker Davidson, while riding down Fifth street, last evening, came together. Both boys fell hard, and the rear wheel of Blythe's bicycle looked as though it had passed through a first class clay press.

ATTACKED BY A COW.

Rev. R. B. Whitehead Had an Experience In Braddock.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette of this morning says:

"A cow belonging to Rev. R. B. Whitehead, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church at Braddock, severely gored the reverend gentleman yesterday. Mr. Whitehead was just through giving it a drink out of a bucket, and stooped to pick the bucket up, when the animal plunged at him and with its horns gored him in the cheek."

STRANGE FATALITY

Three Members of Squire Rose's Family Died in a Few Weeks.

Squire Rose left today for Rootstown, Portage county, to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. France who died Monday evening from hemorrhages, aged 62 years. A large family, all grown, are left to mourn her death. This makes three deaths in the Rose family since March 18. March 19 the squire's mother died and just two weeks ago last Sunday the husband of Mrs. France was laid to rest.

THE POPULATION INCREASES.

Assessor John Anderson Finds a Great Many Children.

John Anderson, assessor in the Second ward, has almost completed his work, and finds that the population of his portion of the city is increasing at a splendid rate. A comparison with what he did last year shows that almost double the number of children were born in the ward than in the same time before his last visit. They are well scattered through the ward.

ON A NEW LINE.

S. C. Whittenberger to Become an Oil Operator.

S. C. Whittenberger will this week quit the saloon business. With Mr. Bucheit he has leased 165 acres of land, and will go into the oil business at Sistersville. He will also begin the manufacture of horseshoes in partnership with James Gillespie. They have recently patented a double horseshoe which, when placed on the market, promises to be a rapid seller.

SPLIT HIS FINGER.

An Accident Rendered Peck Carnahan Unfit For Work.

Peck Carnahan, the well known football player, is nursing a badly mashed finger. Last night while unloading beer at the ice plant a barrel slipped and rolled on a finger of his right hand, splitting it from end to end. The wound was dressed by a physician, but it will be several days before he is able to do any work.

HOME FROM FLORIDA.

S. H. Porter and Family Have Returned to the City.

S. H. Porter and family have returned from their sojourn in Florida, and are again numbered among the residents of this city. Miss Martha Porter, who was injured in an accident a few months ago, has entirely recovered. Their stay in the south was unusually pleasant.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Our Delegation at the Infirmary Are All Well.

The township trustees failed to transact all their business while at the infirmary yesterday, and refused to give out anything for publication. They report all the inmates of the poorhouse from this city in first-class spirits and enjoying the best of health.

ONE CASE IS FINISHED

The Grand Jury Has Disposed of Malone.

NO REPORT UNTIL TOMORROW

The Jury Discussed the Lisbon Boys Who Are Charged With Assaulting a Companion, and the Robison Murder Is on This Afternoon.

LISBON, April 29.—[Special]—The grand jury this afternoon took up the case of Z. S. Robison, charged with murdering his wife in East Liverpool last Saturday night.

The jury disposed of the case of Pat Malone last night, but no report was made, nor will there be one until the matter now before them is finished. This morning the evidence against the boys charged with beating a Lisbon youth until he was almost in a dying condition was taken, and Robison came up this afternoon. A number of Liverpool people are here for the purpose of giving testimony. It is thought the jury will not be able to report until late tomorrow afternoon.

Robison has improved wonderfully since being brought to jail. He thought he was being taken to a dungeon where he would be ill-treated and abused, and for a while was sick. When Deputy Bick suggested he bring a doctor he said:

"I don't suppose a doctor could do me any good. I am heartbroken about my wife."

The deputy, however, brought the doctor and Robison was given some medicine. This morning Bick had a long talk with the prisoner, and advised him to cheer up and make the most of it. He was provided with newspapers and magazines, and now seems to have forgotten his trouble. His appetite is good, and he is physically and mentally much better.

CONSUMPTION

Caused the Death of John Kinney This Morning.

John Kinney died this morning, at his home in Oblique street, after an attack of consumption, aged 33 years. Deceased has been ill for many years, and spent a year in the west in the hope of regaining his health, but six months ago returned home to die. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The funeral will take place Monday morning at 8:30, from the Catholic church.

On the River.

The river is rising, and has now reached the 7.3 foot mark.

Passed up—Ben Hur, Relief, Jim Wood, John Moren; passed down—Hudson.

A number of young people from Pittsburg and Philadelphia were on the Hudson, last night, going to Nashville. The party was being chaperoned by Mrs. G. Larson. D. McDevitt and wife, of this city, were also passengers.

A Short Rest.

The gas engine at the Thomas machine shops broke down yesterday, and the employees were compelled to take a half-day's rest. It was repaired late last evening.

A number of the employees of the Sebring decorating department are loafing this afternoon, on account of having no space in which to put the ware.

Association Athletics.

This is the last week of indoor exercises at the Young Men's Christian association until next September. The vacant lot in the rear of the building is being cleaned, and will be used as an exercise field.

Director Morris will organize a baseball club as soon as a number of college boys return home.

Awnings Still With Us.

It is still a matter for wonder on the part of ex-Councilman Peake, why the wooden awnings have not been torn down. Council ordered the marshal to notify the owners of all awnings of this kind, to remove them almost a month ago, but as yet there has been nothing done.

An Entertainment.

An excellent entertainment was given at the African M. E. church last night. The house was crowded, and the program good. Another will be given this evening. Reverend Carson is raising money to be used in repairing the church.

He Did, She Didn't.

A young lady was riding her bike in upper Broadway last evening, and got in a collision by yelling to a young man riding in the opposite direction to keep to the right. He did so, but she didn't, with the above result.

ant food for serious reflection, and learn the lesson whose moral is the sin of preparation.

MAYOR McKISSON, of Cleveland, has publicly announced that he will support

Mr. Hanna for the senate, and the Democrats who were saying in great glee a few days ago that he was after the senator's scalp, are now wondering what has happened.

THOUSANDS upon thousands of poor suffering people are this evening homeless in the Mississippi valley. The flood has not subsided, and they have nothing with which to stock their farms and begin life anew if the waters had gone.

Their condition is such as to appeal to everyone.

THE CROCKERY TARIFF.

There is much speculation as to what the experts employed by the senate finance committee did with the crockery schedule of the tariff bill when it was placed in their merciless hands, and the speculation will likely continue yet a little longer for they say that the changes are not to be made known until the measure is reported back for action.

No matter what pressure may have been brought by the importers and their friends there are reasons for believing that crockery will not suffer. The action, whether premeditated or an error, where by the potters were given the warm end of the tariff poker in the Wilson bill, is a sufficient guarantee that much more than the Wilson bill rate will be allowed.

REDICULOUS CLAIMS.

Basing the circulation of the News

Review upon the flimsy foundation that has so well served a local paper in its silly and extravagant claims of the past few days, it would be but right to say that 5,432,969 copies of this paper have been printed and sold since the murder last Saturday night, and even that did not supply the enormous demand. People crowded and fell over each other in a vain attempt to secure the thrilling details of the awful tragedy, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that four or five squadrons of police could maintain a semblance of order. The stern faces of strong men blanched as they eagerly devoured the exciting story, and the mere mention of the journal's name caused weak women to fall fainting to the sidewalk. Oh, it was a wonderful achievement, an achievement so great that even the gods doffed their hats and bowed in adoration at a genius and journalistic ability so truly great.

is high and advancing daily; where a good residence lot anywhere near the center of the city will cost you from $3,000 to $5,000. Why pay such fabulous prices when a better lot can be had in Chester for from $300 to $500.

Chester will be connected with East Liverpool inside of the next 20 days with an electric railway. The Panhandle railroad will be extended this summer, and when this is done we will have two factories located in Chester which will give employment to 500 skilled workmen, which alone will insure a population of 2,000 people. This, with the natural overflow from our already crowded and thickly built city insures for Chester a population of several thousand people. Do not stand back and say this cannot be, for we have already demonstrated to this community our ability to work out problems of this character.

Chester is no myth, as many of our wealthiest and most influential citizens are placing their money there. Some of them have already erected substantial business buildings, and others are preparing to do so, and before the snow falls we shall see a thrifty little city of considerable magnitude.

Chester is located in West Virginia, the home of low taxation, taxes being 8-10 of 1 per cent.

Speculators and investors, no such an opportunity for large returns on your money has ever knocked at your door, and perhaps will never come again. Those who are wise will be on hand and avail themselves of this great opportunity to secure a valuable lot for a small amount of money. The sale will commence on the ground Tuesday, April 27,

ELECTION OF DEBOE.

It Makes Little Change in the Senate Situation.

DEPENDS ON HOW KYLE STANDS.

If He Votes With the Republicans and the Vice President Helps Out, the Republicans Will Have a Majority of

One-Tariff Situation.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The election of Deboe in Kentucky does not change

the political complexion of the senate,

but on some party questions might give the Republicans a majority if Senator

Kyle of South Dakota voted with them, together with the vote of the vice president. The election of Deboe makes the total membership of the senate 88, composed of 45 Republicans, 33 Democrats and 10 Populists and silver Republicans. With Kyle, the Republicans would have 44, a tie, and with the vice president a majority of one.

It is believed, however, that in case a party vote was imminent or probable,

that an election would occur in Florida,

leaving the senate standing as before

Deboe's election. Besides, a party vote would mean a long debate, giving the Florida Democrats time to get together.

The Republican senatorial committee on committees was in session when informed of the Kentucky election. This committee will reserve places for the new Republican senators. It is expected that the committee will complete its work to-day and prepare a report to be submitted to the Republican caucus as soon as called. Most of the places have been arranged and await the attendance of other members of committee before they are definitely agreed upon.

The Republican sub-committee of the senate finance committee, which is preparing the tariff bill, decided definitely not to attempt to report the bill to the full committee before next Monday.

The Democratic members of the committee, when the bill is presented, will ask for time sufficient to examine the bill in detail, with the view of suggesting any amendments they may consider it possible to have accepted by the committee. They might expect to make this examination apart from the Republicans and to sit with them only when a conference is necessary.

Amendments which they know will have no chance of being accepted will be reserved for presentation in the senate. The Democrats insist that they have no purpose of placing obstructions in the way of the orderly disposition of the bill or of delaying its passage beyond the time necessary to present their views, but insist that they must have time for a thorough examination.

DEBOE THE SENATOR.

Bradley Writes Out a Certificate For Blackburn's Successor.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 29.—Governor Bradley has written out a certificate of election for Hon. William J. Deboe of Crittenden county as junior senator from Kentucky, to succeed Hon. J. C.

Blackburn, whose term expired March

4. Senator Deboe will be in his seat in the senate Monday next.

Senator Deboe has suffered slight strokes of political lightning before.

The end of the famous struggle which has extended over two legislative sessions will go into history, as the most memorable ever Kentucky has known.

Dr. Hunter came here six weeks ago with a majority in the legislature, with a clean majority of these Republicans staunchly for him and the additional backing of the national and state party organizations, but circumstances were against him and the lightning struck

Deboe on the one hundred and twelfth ballot.

RESUMED THEIR DUTIES.

The Visitors to New York Returned to Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Pennsylvania railroad's special train, which carried President McKinley, Mrs.

Grant, the cabinet and the diplomatic corps to New York for the Grant ceremonies, has returned to Washington.

The president and his party, Mrs.

Grant's party, Admiral Brown and General Miles remained in New York,

as did many of the diplomats.

The company which the train carried on its return trip included Secretary of State Sherman, Postmaster General

Gary, Attorney General McKenna, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Adjutant General Ruggles, the British ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, the French ambassador, M. Patenotre, and about 25 other diplomats.

The vice presidential train operated by the Baltimore and Ohio road arrived here after a five-hour run from

New York. Mr. Hobart and the committee of the senate and house returned on the train. Speaker Reed did not return with the party, but is expected to-day.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.

He Spent Last Evening in the Hotel at

New York.

NEW YORK, April 29.—President Mc-

Kinley spent a quiet evening in his apartments at the Windsor hotel

last evening. Mr. Abner McKinley said that the president would not leave his apartments during the evening.

During the afternoon President Mc-

Kinley went for a drive through the park, up Riverside drive and around

Grant's tomb. He returned at 5:30 o'clock.

After dinner Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. J.

A. Porter, Mrs. Sexton, Abner McKinley, Mrs. Abner McKinley and Miss

Mabel McKinley attended the Lyceum theater.

A Triple Tragedy.

FRESNO, Cal., April 29.—A triple tragedy has been committed at Red

Banks, a farming settlement 30 miles distant from here. As a result Mrs.

John Quale and her daughter Lulu are dying, and their assailant, James

Brooks, is dead.

Lincoln's Birthday a Holiday.

HARRISBURG, Apr. 29.—The house has passed a bill making February 13,

Lincoln's birthday, a legal holiday.

GOLD FOR EUROPE.

Shipments the Result of Dissolution of Bankers' Agreement.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Of the $1,500,-

000 gold shipped to Europe, $1,000,000 was withdrawn by Lazard Freres and $500,000 by Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston. Both shipments went by the Normania today. It is understood that the Boston houses sends its gold to Germany. Both withdrawals were made in regular form by presentation of treasury notes at the sub-treasury.

At the banking house of Lazard

Freres it was stated that the shipment was made in the regular order of business to liquidate indebtedness and was not a purchase of gold on an order from Europe, as was said of the shipment of $1,000,000 ordered Saturday.

Lazard Freres' representative said further that it was not unlikely that further shipments of the same character would be made by them. Withdrewals of gold coin for shipment are also in prospect by other houses for shipment

on next Saturday's steamer.

These shipments are the results of the dissolution of the tacit agreement

among the foreign bankers not to ship gold until sterling exchange should rise to the basis of $1.85; for demand sterling, actual rates. Demand sterling is sold today at $1.87, as a result of the dissolution of the agreement.

The total shipments so far announced this week amount to $2,477,000 and it is now generally felt that this is the inauguration of a regular gold export movement which is usual at this time of the year and which has already been

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, APRIL 25,

The news from Cuba is of the most encouraging nature. Weyler is doing nothing to advance his cause, and the rebels are pounding away at every opportunity.

The Ohio man is always in it. A company made up of 75 of him has been formed at Dayton for the sole purpose of driving back the invading Turks from Grecian soil.

PROFESSOR WILSON, the reformer, continues to attack the Dingley bill, and you notice that Dingley isn't saying a word. He knows when someone is doing him a good turn.

In Oil City, Pa., they have just passed an ordinance making the license of street fakirs and merchants, who only come to town for the purpose of doing business a few weeks, so high that there is no profit in it for anyone but the city. That's sensible.

If the calamity-crying Democrats will turn for a moment to the statement of the state labor department and read that there are but 6,000 idle men in Cleveland, where at this season last year there were 15,000, they can find abundant food for serious reflection, and learn the lesson whose moral is the sin of prevarication.

MAYOR McKISSON, of Cleveland, has publicly announced that he will support Mr. Hanna for the senate, and the Democrats who were saying in great glee a few days ago that he was after the senator's scalp, are now wondering what has happened.

A NAVAL RECEPTION.

Closing Event of the Grant Monument Ceremonies.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The closing exercises of the Grant monument ceremonies took place last night in the form of a reception in the Waldorf hotel to the naval officers of the foreign war vessels and those of the United States. Nearly 1,500 invitations had been issued, and the spacious chambers, salons and corridors of the hotel were thronged early with men and women in handsome toilets. Both ballrooms were thrown open to the guests at the reception.

Mayor Strong, representing the city, received with Mrs. Strong. They were assisted by Mrs. Elihu Root, Mrs. Horace Porter, Mrs. Henry E. Fries, Mrs. Parke Benjamin, Mrs. William C. Whitney, Mrs. George J. Gould and others.

A LABOR WAR ON.

K. of L. Officials Declare Against the Federation.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The general executive board of the Knights of Labor has formally declared war against the American Federation of Labor on account of the action of the National Brewery Workers, an affiliated body of the American Federation of Labor, and adopted an address to the members of the Knights of Labor throughout the United States.

This address, which will be printed in the official journal of the order, and a copy sent to each member of the organization, accuses the officers of the Federation of Labor of misrepresentation and of endeavoring the wrong the members of the Rochester Brewery Workers' Local Assembly of the Knights of Labor.

MISS ERVIN MUST EXPLAIN.

Banker Spalding's Stenographer Summoned by the Grand Jury.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Miss Sarah Louise Ervin, "the woman in the case," has been summoned to appear before the grand jury to tell what she knows about the recent failure of the Globe

MISS E. LOUISE ERVIN.

Savings bank and the disappearance of the funds of the University of Illinois. Miss Ervin was President Spalding's private secretary.

It is claimed that Spalding's infatuation for this woman caused his downfall.

A Fire at Allentown.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 29.—Fire which broke out in the big store of M. C. Ebbecke hardware company did damage amounting to nearly $50,000 before it was extinguished. Ebbecke's store was completely gutted; loss, $30,000; insurance, $15,000. John E. Lent's shoe factory was damaged to the extent of $10,000.

CHANGES ON THE B. & O.

Brimson Made Superintendent of the Ohio Division.

CINCINNATI, April 29.—W. H. Brimson has been appointed superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern, with headquarters at Chillicothe, vice C. H. Howard, transferred to Cincinnati as superintendent of terminals.

The headquarters of E. R. Scoville, trainmaster of the Ohio division, with headquarters at Chillicothe, vice T. G. Dugan, resigned. These appointments are effective May 1 and other changes will follow.

GREAT LAND SALE!

The Chester Land Company

WILL ON TUESDAY, APRIL 27,

AT 1:30 O'CLOCK P. M.,

AGAIN PLACE THEIR LOTS UPON THE MARKET.

This will give to the people of East Liverpool and vicinity an opportunity to get a home at hitherto unheard of prices. These lots were placed upon the market last fall for a period of five weeks, and we then sold over $39,000 worth of property, and were then taken off the market until now. This property it is unnecessary to describe to our citizens, as it is so well known to all, being that beautiful level river front and bottom land lying immediately opposite East Liverpool, between the new bridge and Rock Spring Pleasure Resort. The lots are all large and level, mostly 40x140 feet, and fronting on wide beautiful streets. These lots we propose selling at last year's prices, which range from $200 to $500 a lot, and on terms to suit the purchaser. Special inducements to purchasers on the opening day, so intending buyers should be on hand and thus save a liberal discount.

What Has Chester to Offer to Intending Purchasers?

Chester is, from a commercial standpoint, a part and parcel of East Liverpool, one of the most progressive cities of a population of 15,000 to be found anywhere; where real estate can be had in Chester for from $300 to $500.

Chester will be connected with East Liverpool inside of the next 20 days with an electric railway. The Panhandle railroad will be extended this summer, and when this is done we will have two factories located in Chester which will give employment to 500 skilled workmen, which alone will insure a population of 2,000 people. This, with the natural overflow from our already crowded and thickly built city insures for Chester a population of several thousand people. Do not stand back and say this cannot be, for we have already demonstrated to this community our ability to work out problems of this character.

Chester is no myth, as many of our wealthiest and most influential citizens are placing their money there. Some of them have already erected substantial business buildings, and others are preparing to do so, and before the snow falls we shall see a thrifty little city of considerable magnitude.

Chester is located in West Virginia, the home of low taxation, taxes being 8-10 of 1 per cent.

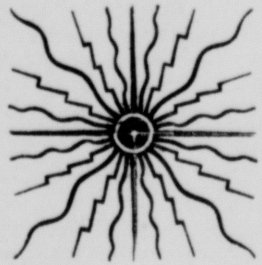

Speculators and investors, no such an opportunity for large returns on your money has ever knocked at your door, and perhaps will never come again. Those who are wise will be on hand and avail themselves of this great opportunity to secure a valuable lot for a small amount of money. The sale will commence on the ground Tuesday, April 27, 1897, at 1:30 o'clock p. m. For further information address

DR. MARSHALL'S PLAN

He Would Make Pennsylvania Avenue

A VERY GOOD ROADWAY AND WALK

Abundant Room For Vehicles With a Cinder Sidewalk on the Lower Side and a Broad Gutter Which Will Carry Off the Water From the Hill.

The resolution introduced at the last meeting of council by Dr. R. J. Marshall, and providing for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue from a point opposite lot 1579 to the East End school building, is innocent and modest enough in appearance to suit anyone, but it hides a plan which, when carried into execution, will remove what has long been an eyesore to every public spirited citizen, and provide a way to reach East End without endangering life and limb by accident along the river road, made dangerous by the encroachment of the Ohio on one side and the street railway on the other.

Since the defeat of the proposition to pave the hill road Doctor Marshall has at times had a few words on his favorite plan, but the main idea was not then complete in detail and he had nothing of an official nature to offer. At length, after no end of consultation with engineers regarding the merits of the scheme, and the probable cost of carrying it into execution, he has decided upon a course that will not necessitate the expenditure of much money and will give the city what it has long needed, a good road to East End. There are no puzzling portions, and no argument can be advanced to cover the idea with cold water. It is plain and simple, and means nothing more than what it shows on the surface.

The first part of the plan provides for the widening of the road from the junction of Robinson street and Thompson avenue to the East End school building, the distance that has been nothing more than one long stretch of mud every winter for many years and very rough and stony throughout the summer. Just what this width is to be can only be determined by a survey, and that Engineer George was instructed to do by the resolution. On the side next to the hill will be made a gutter at least four feet wide. This it is estimated will be wide enough to carry off the immense amount of water which now comes off the hill, and after flooding the roadway goes over the other side. This gutter can be so constructed as to meet every requirement, and its cost will not materially add to the price of the improvement.

Next to this is the roadway 20 feet wide. The plan of several years ago was to have this paved, but it has since been decided that an improvement of that kind is not at this time necessary. It would be expensive, and would not serve the purpose as well as a good, hard road. The width is believed necessary because there is a great deal of travel between the city and East End, and a road much narrower would make little difference in the cost. It will also permit of sufficient slope to carry off the water and prevent mud holes.

The last feature proposed is the sidewalk. This can easily be made six feet wide, making the total width of the improvement 30 feet, something that can be obtained without a great deal of cutting from the hill or filling on the river side. It is proposed to make the path of cinders and hard enough to be easily traveled at all seasons of the year without the pedestrian wading ankle deep in all kinds of mud. When completed the improvement would be less than a mile long. It is not the intention to pike the roadway, but by the best possible system of drainage to keep the road dry. Thus a hard, dirt road, the best kind of a driveway, would be the result. The grading would not amount to much, and the benefits derived would be so great that many persons who have heard the details of the plan believe that it will be carried without opposition. Since the river road is a thing of the past, and only the expenditure of a vast amount of money would ever put it in anything like passable condition, there remains but one way by which the East End can be connected with the city, and that is the hill road. The view from that part of the city and the scarcity of good roads in this part of the world could not but make it very popular.

CHILDREN'S EYES.

PHYSICIAN ON THE IMPORTANCE OF CARING FOR THEM.

Dispositions Sometimes Affected by Trouble of the Eyesight—Benefits of Using Properly Adjusted Glasses—Valuable Advice to Parents.

About two years ago a lady brought two of her sons, aged respectively 9 and 11, to me to have their eyes examined to see if glasses were needed. She had taken this step partially on my invitation and as a matter of precaution, as she was well aware that both herself and her husband had defective eyes, and some of her children were already wearing glasses for troubles which were without doubt hereditary. In answer to questions about the general health of the children, their disposition, complaints they made regarding headache, etc., she made the following statement:

"I really am puzzled to know what to do with the older boy. He seems so irritable and cross after a few days at school, and he always seems to be spoiling for a fight. His health seems very good, with the exception of headache after study, but he is not nearly as far advanced in school for his age as his younger brother."

After making a careful examination I prescribed glasses for the older one, but told the mother that the younger one did not need them at the present time. I did not see anything of the children or the mother for six months, at which time, when meeting the mother, she told me the glasses had worked a marvelous change in her son, and he was now constantly and could not bear to be without them. He was now picking up in his school work and was better natured than she had ever known him before.

This child is only one of many thousands in our schools today who are having their dispositions ruined and are called dull and stupid by their parents and teachers through no fault of their own. Being perhaps born with a defect in sight, they do not know of any different world from that which they see through defective eyes, consequently cannot relate their troubles to their parents, as they are entirely unconscious of their defect. Therefore I wish to emphasize most emphatically that it is the duty of all parents and teachers to mark very closely any peculiarity that children may have in looking at objects at a long distance or close at hand, such as squinting their eyes, frowning, looking sideways from partially closed eyes, and particularly regarding the distance at which they hold their reading matter from their eyes, for it is natural for a child, or for a grown person, for that matter, who has normal sight to hold clearly printed reading matter about 15 inches from his eyes. Should this be varied to any extent, such as drawing the reading copy close to the eyes or holding it at arm's length, it is almost a sure sign that there is something wrong.

People who have strong eyes usually have but little sympathy for those who are less fortunate in this respect.

The necessity of glasses to assist a child in school work, which will put it on a more even footing with the other students, is not appreciated by many parents who are otherwise thoughtful and considerate of the welfare of their children, and who are in many cases undergoing privations that their children may secure an education. Do not be too ready to judge these children as having a fad for glasses or wishing to wear them because some of their playmates do. Better be a little over-cautious in having the child's eyes examined than to take too much responsibility in this matter in your own hands, for no honest optician will advise you to put glasses on a child unless they are sure to prove an advantage.

Another point which I think should be proclaimed loud and long to the different parents is the fact that nine of every ten cases of strabismus (cross eyes) existing among children under the age of 12 can be wholly cured by the very simple and painless method of wearing glasses, whereas if this matter is left until the child has reached maturity it requires a painful operation, which in the majority of cases is not altogether successful then, for it is not alone the matter of appearance that the parents are responsible for. But children who are cross eyed and allowed to remain in this condition any length of time are almost certain to lose the use of one eye wholly or in part, owing to the length of time they are allowed to go in this way. Very few children are born cross eyed, and almost every mother will tell you that this misfortune was due to some sickness, a fall or something of the kind which happened when they were beginning to walk, when in reality the accident or sickness only marked the time that the child first began to use its eyes to discriminate small objects, and the straining of the eyes to see caused them to cross.

Another reason why many children are allowed to grow up cross eyed is because physicians in general practice have heretofore been so grossly ignorant of these subjects that they have informed the mother that the child would probably outgrow this trouble. This is a mistake. Cross eyes are produced by straining the sight and very rarely, if ever, are outgrown. Babies sometimes have the appearance of being slightly cross eyed, owing to the formation of the lids when they are very small. This, of course, may be outgrown. But when parents notice their child's eyes cross temporarily when looking at an object close at hand, even though they remain so for a few moments only, they will use the best of judgment in having the matter investigated at once. Do not think that an operation will do away with wearing glasses in these cases, for glasses almost invariably go with an operation, and you cannot change this matter, however much you may wish to do so.—Dr. W. L. Seymour in Omaha World-Herald.

NANNY AND THE CUB.

Likes and Dislikes of a Bear That Was Suckled by a Goat.

The bear that figures in the story is known as Jack, and he belongs to Lewis Ford, who formerly owned a goat ranch high up on the Cerro Colorado mountain, overlooking the lovely valley of the San Joaquin.

Ford found the bear when it was a cub, soft, round, shining and black. Being wifeless, childless and alone, he adopted the tiny cub and carried it home. Once there, Ford soon found that a foster mother must be provided for the infant, and so a frightened, trembling, bleating she goat was brought to the house to take the place of the parent he so missed. It was only after much combined force and persuasion the goat could be induced to adopt as her own the unlikeliest orphan placed in her care. But the time came when foster mother and foster child were as happy and content in their relations to each other as if the sight of a nimble footed, blue haired "nanny" suckling a clumsy black bear cub was of the most ordinary condition of affairs. The bear waxed fat on goat's milk, and a more docile, tractable beast never grew up under the guardianship of a humane and loving master. In the earlier days of his adoption the baby was a baby in truth. He would not be left alone, and it would have been a harder heart than Ford's that could have resisted the pitiful whimper of the little fellow whenever he thought that he was to be left alone in the house. Had there been any to see it in those days they would have witnessed a strange sight. The great, broad shouldered man, following his flock as they grazed on the bunch grass—sometimes five or six miles from home—and as he walked the steep mountain side, where it was so nearly perpendicular that it seemed that only the goats themselves could gain a foothold on the rocks, carried the cub in his arms.

When Jack grew older, he was trained to herd goats. Previously a number of dogs had helped Ford, but the bear and the dogs could not agree, and so the dogs had to go. Jack took their place well, and they were never missed. For several years the bear continued to help Ford until the latter sold his ranch and prepared to go to his old home in Europe. Then a number of his neighbors tried to buy the bear. Ford refused to sell him and said that if he could not take Jack with him he would not go. The difficulty about shipping the bear was overcome, and now he and his master are living contentedly in the old country, enjoying the fruits of their long, lonesome stay in the California mountains.—San Francisco Call.

Wagner on Young Von Bulow.

"I have followed the youthful developing period of your son's life with cognizance and sympathy, without exercising any other influence upon him than that of my example as an artist and of my most cautious advice. I have observed that his love of art, and especially of music, is based upon no mere transient excitement, but upon great—indeed, uncommon—powers. It was with my special concurrence, and indeed at my suggestion, that he went on with his law studies with undiminished zeal, as there is nothing so repugnant to me as a musician who is at the same time without any higher general culture. At the wish of his family he applied himself also to the study of jurisprudence. Full of devotion to his mother, he tried hard to take an interest in this study, which, in reality, went dreadfully against his grain. And now what is the perfectly clear and evident result of all his pains and experience? Simply the outspoken, absolute conviction that the more he sets the one thing against the other the more he feels that it is art alone—in other words, music—that he can live unceasingly. This one thing, my dear lady, stands first and foremost as an undeniable fact, and I cannot doubt that, when once you yourself are convinced of this wish of your son to devote himself entirely to music, you will make it your own wish also."—The Early Correspondence of Hans von Bulow.

CLEAN PARIS KITCHENS.

No Ashes or Garbage There, Says Lecturer Clarence Cook.

What becomes of the ashes and garbage in Paris was a question raised and partially answered by Clarence Cook in an address delivered at the regular meeting of the League For Political Education on "Little Housekeeping in Paris." The Paris which Mr. Cook talked about was that of some 25 years ago, when the differences in domestic life in that city and this were much greater than at present. Since then New York has adopted the flat system in all its details, but there were still differences, chief among which was the handling of garbage and ashes. In the apartments which Mr. Cook occupied in Paris, and which he described as being delightfully situated, though "on the wrong side of the Seine," according to the ideas of a fashionable friend of his in the American colony, there were no ashes that he could see. The stove consisted of an iron top, with six circular holes in it. Whenever anything was to be cooked an iron basket of charcoal was put into one of these holes, and the food placed over it. When the charcoal was burned, what was left fell through the basket and disappeared.

In the way of food everything came to the apartment fully prepared for cooking. In a mutton chop there was nothing but meat and bone, and when the meat had been eaten the bone was deposited on the charcoal fire. Potatoes were bought already peeled, carrots without their green tops and all green vegetables without any of the superfluous outer leaves or husks or skins which would go to make up garbage. All of this cleaning and peeling was done at the markets, and the resulting material was saved in a clean condition. Even coffee grounds, Mr. Cook said, were used after leaving the flat.

No one in Paris ever bought enough

of anything to be left over, and no one was ashamed to ask the dealer for a single mutton chop or a small portion of any article of food. If there were any garbage or ashes in Paris, Mr. Cook said, no one ever saw either of them, which was certainly different from the experience of a New York woman he told of, who after a year's residence in the city wrote to a friend that life in the metropolis meant the taking care of an ash barrel.—New York Times.

ATTAR OF ROSES.

How This Delicious and Expensive Perfume Is Made.

The word "attar" is from the Arab "itr," and means perfume. So attar of roses is simply perfume of roses. It is brought from Turkey and the East Indies in small vials and is very costly. Even on the spot where it is manufactured it is extremely dear, because it requires 100,000 well grown roses to yield but 180 grains of attar.

Its high price causes it to be often adulterated with some essential or fixed oil or with spermaceti. However, the adulteration may be detected by testing it in a watch glass with a drop of sulphuric acid. If the attar be pure it will remain colorless, for pure attar of roses is colorless, but if it be adulterated it will become darkened.

In rosefields, where the roses are grown for the purpose of making the attar, the bushes are planted in rows. In the early morning they are laden with beautiful roses, but ere noon comes they are all gathered and their petals distilled in clay stills, with twice their weight of water.

The water that "comes over" is put into perfectly clean vessels and is then carefully covered with damp muslin cloths to keep out dust and insects. It is afterward exposed to the night air or to artificial cold. By morning a film of oil has collected on the top of the water, just as cream rises on milk. This film is swept off with a feather and very carefully transferred to a small vial. Night after night this process is repeated until all of the precious oil is separated from the water.—Philadelphia Times.

EXACTING DISCIPLINE.

Spartan Severity Ruled Philip Gilbert Hamerton in His Childhood.

Philip Gilbert Hamerton was, during his childhood, the victim of a severe and cruel discipline. His father was a man of ungovernable temper and irregular life, who had no sympathy with childish foibles and whose only idea of educating a boy was to "make a man of him."

His method of teaching the lad to ride was to accompany him on a vicious black horse, and when little Philip erred in any of the observances of good riding to punish him with his heavy hunting whip. The whip had a steel hammer at the end of a long handle, and if at any time the owner fancied that the child was turning out his toes he would not say anything, but with cruel dexterity deal him a blow on the foot, sharp enough to make him writhe with pain.

Yet this Spartan severity had its valuable side. The elder Hamerton understood the importance of concentration, and if he saw the boy occupied with several books would say:

"Take one of those books and read it steadily. Don't potter and play with what you have."

What he hated most was a lie or the shadow of a lie, and so bitter was this aversion that Philip was sometimes punished unjustly. He was expected to practice with dumbbells 15 minutes every morning. This exercise was taken in the garden, but before beginning he always looked at the clock in the sitting room. One day the father met him and asked:

"Have you done your 15 minutes?"

"Yes, papa."

"That is not true," said his aunt from the next room. "He has only practiced for ten minutes. Look at the clock."

The hand stood at 10 minutes past 11, and though the boy protested that he had begun at ten minutes before the hour the "additional lie" put his father in a fury, and he was ordered to practice continually for two hours. And, though the child was ready to drop with fatigue long before the 120 minutes were over, not one of them was remitted.—Youth's Companion.

THE MOST ICY SPOT.

Werkojank, Siberia, Is the Coldest Region of the Globe.

The coldest region of the globe, that of Werkojank, in Siberia, where the lowest temperature of —90 degrees F. has been observed, and the mean of January is —48 degrees F., is inhabited by about 10,000 persons of the Jakut and Lamut races. In a large part of the region, according to the representation of Mr. Sergius Kovalik, in the bulletin of the Geographical society of Irkutsk, the air is so dry and winds are so rare that the intensity of the cold is not fully realized.

Farther east there are sometimes terrible storms. In the summer time the temperature sometimes rises to 86 degrees F. in the shade, while it freezes at night. The latter part of this season is often marked by copious rains and extensive inundations.

Vegetation is scanty. There are no trees, only meadows. The people hunt fur bearing animals, fish and raise cattle and reindeer. It requires about eight cows to support a family, four being milked in the summer and two in the winter. The cattle are fed hay in the winter and are allowed to go out occasionally when it is not too cold, their teats being carefully covered up with felt. Milk is the principal food, occasionally supplemented with hares, which are quite abundant. The houses are of wood, covered with clay, and consist of one room, in which the people and their animals live together. The wealthier classes are better provided with lodging and food. The people are very hospitable, but excessively punctilious concerning points of honor, such as the place at table.—Popular Science Monthly.

FERRYBOATS.

The Kind That Were In Use a Hundred Years Ago.

The horse boats between the cities of New York and Brooklyn may be cited as early attempts to solve the problem of transport by water. An interesting feature of these early constructions was the use of a water wheel 12 feet or so in diameter, with 24 floats, the latter inclined slightly to the radius so as to avoid the lifting of the water, which is so troublesome a feature of the radial float. These horse boats appear to have been of three general designs. In the first a frame, shaped somewhat like the letter "A" or an inverted "U," was mounted to turn around its vertical axis. Four of these frames, dividing the circle into eight parts, made a sort of skeleton cone, and this cone was caused to revolve by eight horses moving in a horizontal circular path about 20 feet in diameter. The face gear, 15 feet in diameter, drove a three foot pinion mounted upon the axis on the water wheel shaft and the wheels were within the frame in an opening between half hulls.

The second plan was of a conical skeleton frame at an incline of about one in two, so that the horses had to travel up this inclined surface, causing it to rotate with their weight and traction.

In the third plan—a smaller design—the paddle wheels were brought into a well between the two half hulls of the boat, catamaran fashion, as in the first arrangement, and the frame was mounted above the wheels, and its rotating motion was transmitted by intermediate idle wheels to the water wheel shaft. Boats of the first and second class seem to have been about 75 feet long.

It is interesting also to observe that the swinging bridge for ferryboat service had been already thought out by Fulton early in this century, with its counterweight construction and its windlass for making the boats fast. Such boats seem to have drawn a little over two feet of water and to have had perfectly flat bottoms, like scows.—Professor F. R. Hutton in Cassier's Magazine.

Life In Olden England.

In his youth Augustus J. C. Haro lived with his adopted parents at a rectory in Shropshire, and of the life there he gives some picturesque details in the story of his life.

When there was "a wash" at Stoke, which was about every three weeks, it was a rule with granny that, summer or winter, it must always begin at 1 a. m. At that hour old Hannah Berry used to arrive from the village, the coppers were heated and the maids at work. The ladies' maids, who were expected to do all the fine muslins, etc., themselves, had also always to be at the washtrub at 3 a. m.—by candlelight. If any one was late, the housekeeper reported to Mrs. Lyecester, who was soon down upon them pretty sharply. Generally, however, her real practical kindness and generosity prevented any one minding Mrs. Lyecester's severity. It was looked upon as only "her way," for people were not so tender in those days as they are now, and certainly no servants would have thought of giving up a place which was essentially a good one because they were a little roughly handled by their mistress. In those days servants were as liable to personal chastisement as the children of the house and would as little thought of resenting it. "You don't suppose I'm going to hurt my hand boxing your ears," said granny when about to chastise the school children she was teaching, and she would take up a book from the table and use it soundly, and then say, "Now we mustn't let the other ear be jealous," and turn the other round and lay on again on the other side. Granny constantly bexed her housemaids' ears, and, alas, when he grew very old, she used to box dear grandpapa's, though she loved him dearly, the great source of offense being that he would sometimes slyly give the servant's elbow a tip when his daily table-spoonful of brandy was being poured out.

Where Golf Resembles War.

"A grand joke developed itself not long ago," says a Monte Video correspondent. "A native paper published alarming paragraphs to the effect that the British war vessels were making soundings and taking surveys and effecting other highly suspicious operations near Maldonado and that they had landed an armed force with instruments and terrible unknown engines."

"The government was warned to prepare for an invasion or at the very least a second Trinidad affair. These revelations were apparently confirmed by a telegram from a newspaper correspondent in Maldonado, who said that he himself had seen 'those dreadful English' at their tricks."

"Before such a denunciation the authorities could not remain silent, and accordingly an official telegram was sent to the captain of the port at Maldonado for information. His reply was to the following effect:

"It is not true that the English have been making plans of the port or measuring lands at Punta del Este. What they have done is to mark out a course for an English game that they played here before and which is called 'golf.'"

A Story of Beaconsfield.

Lord Beaconsfield was in theory a female suffragist. But his flirtation was of a very platonic character, for, although he had often the power to give practical effect to his pious opinion, he took care never to do so. Once the opposition leaders were very anxious to find out what course he intended to pursue in regard to a certain matter. They turned loose upon him a well known political beauty. She talked and talked, he gazed and gazed. At length she asked him. He pressed her hand, looked unutterable admiration and observed, "Pretty darling!" I remember how my admiration for Lord Beaconsfield rose when I first heard this tale.—London Truth.

WIND JAMMING DAYS.

AN OLD MARINER'S TALES OF BRAVERY IN WRECK.

"On My Honor as a Sailor, I Won't Leave You," Said the Captain to a Swede Sailor, Bravery and Pathos in the Sea Business of the Old Days.

"Bah!" he said. "You have a lot to learn, young man. You have as much sentiment in your construction as this stick I carry."

"The idea of a youth like you trying to tell me that there is as much bravery and pathos attached to seafaring now as there was when I was master of a wind jammer! You probably believe that you are correct in your statement; but, man alive, you are making a fool of yourself. Here in these days you have lifeboats big and stout enough to carry an army of men. You have steam to manipulate the falls, patent davits to swing clear. No loy' cring away by hands and no getting their backs over the side with every pound of flesh a-pulling. New fangled guns for throwing a life line, rafts that cork to pieces in the first chop of a sea, cork jackets that need no instruction cards, but which go on like a man's vest; pumps that are rusty for want of use, seamless plates and dozens of other inventions in these days. Where were they in the old times?"

"Let me tell you something. I don't say but that there are many brave and gallant mariners in the business now. But the old shipwreck meant more in the matter of life taking than the shipwreck of old days. Did you ever hear tell of a sailor of the old school trying to get into a boat before the passengers were out of danger? You needn't say you have, because you have not. Why, the only ones who ever attempt any thing of that kind are stokers and fire men and rowdies who have the impudence to call themselves sailors."

"I remember the case of a shore loafer named Holmes, who tried a shenanigan like that. He was afterward tried in the United States circuit court at Philadelphia and was convicted of manslaughter. He was one of 30 shipwrecked persons who took to the long boat, which was greatly overloaded and constantly in danger of sinking. Well, this beach rat Holmes and some more of Abraham's men threw overboard 16 passengers, two of whom were women, to lighten the boat. The court held that a sailor is bound by law, if necessary, to sacrifice his life to save the life of passengers. Furthermore the court held that while two sailors might struggle with each other for the possession of the same plank which could save but one, if a passenger were on the plank even the law of necessity would not justify the sailors in taking it from him. You do not think much of that law? Well, it is the law of God. It is also the law of duty."

"Did you ever hear of the case of Captain Nutman of the ship Aida? He was a good sailor and a gallant master and no matter what many may think, it is possible to be both. His ship foundered, but he refused to be taken off. Do you know why he refused to be taken off? There was an injured man on board, and while the old timbers were going to pieces under his very feet he knelt down and said to the man:

"I won't leave you, lad. On my honor as a sailor I won't."

"On his honor as a sailor he would not leave him. Have you ever heard of anything more touchingly honest? Captain Nutman went down with his ship, but managed to hold on to his man and to get to the bottom of an upturned boat, from which they were afterward rescued. It was a month or so after that when a townsman asked Captain Nutman what the name of the rescued man was."

"Why, I never inquired," he said. "He just signed articles in the regular way. I may have heard it then, but I do not know it now. He was a Swede, that's all I know of him."

"The friend shook his head in astonishment as he inquired:

"What! A Swede? Take all that chance for a Swede?"

"Why, yes, even for a Swede. I didn't care whether he was a Swede or a Laplander. He was a good sailor and would have done the same for me had things been reversed."

"Nor is that all, young man. There was a shipwreck about 1845, but the name of the craft has escaped my memory. The crew took to one boat, which was overcrowded. A noble Newfoundland land, the pet of the ship, swam alongside the boat. All the men turned their eyes sadly upon him, but they knew there was no room for him in that boat. The captain loved that dog better than he loved his life, and he stood up in the boat as he took off his coat and said:

"I cannot see him like this. Give him my place in the boat. I can hold on to the plank, and he cannot."

"There was a chorus of dissent, and one of the sailors struck the brute over the head with the blade of an oar, while another pulled his sheath knife."

"Don't hurt him," said the captain, kindly, but firmly.

"Order him away, then," growled several of the men. "He will swamp us all."

"The captain hesitated a minute, waved his arm in the air and said, 'Back, Prince!' and the faithful brute swam back in the direction in which the vessel had disappeared beneath the surface. Where do you find such pathos in the sea business now? Give me the old sailor every time."

And he hobbled up Beaver street as the young mariner dived into William street.—New York Mail and Express.

All He Asked.

"And do you really want to be my son?" asked the widow Mullins of young Spudds, who had asked for her daughter's hand.

"I can't say that I do," replied the truthful suitor. "I want to be Helen's husband."

WATER OF OHIO CITIES

Will Be Investigated by the State Board.

THE HEALTH AUTHORITIES MOVE

Something Will Be Learned of the Different Streams and Lakes of the State, and a Map of the Underground Water Supply Will Be Made.

After years of death and disease, due directly to the water supply of scores of cities and towns in Ohio, the state board of health has decided upon a move which will doubtless result in a condition much of an improvement over what exists at the present time.

The action is important because it will affect thousands upon thousands of people who each day drink more or less liquid filth, and fill themselves with disease germs. It is proposed to at once begin a systematic investigation of the condition of the various lakes and rivers of the state as to the quantity and quality of the water given. Accurate gaugings of these water supplies will be made, and monthly examinations, chemical and bacteriological, held, special attention being paid to those which also receive sewage. Of special importance to smaller cities is the purpose to prepare a report upon the underground water supplies of Ohio, together with a geological map in connection with the work. The work will require several years to complete, and during the present year special attention will be given to the Mahoning, Olentangy, and Scioto rivers. Reports will be made from time to time as the investigation of individual streams is completed. The work is specially important in the effect it will have upon the evils arising from the pollution of the water supplies from outside sources. It is also expected to show the necessity of the state assuming control of the matter. The help of the best experts in the country has been obtained.

While the Ohio river is not, strictly speaking, in Ohio, the board will devote to it more or less attention with a view to showing just how much and what kind of filth the people along its banks drink every day. What can be done to purify the stream has not yet been determined, this part of the plan having gone no farther than the stage of discussion. It is the intention, however, of the board to make known the danger constantly present because of an impure water supply.

In speaking of the water supply of this city an engineer who has investigated the matter said: "It would not cost very much money to give this place a fine filtration plant, and I believe it ought to be done. The water of the Ohio is filthy in the extreme, and the color it has after every heavy rain up the stream shows to my mind that all the loose filth in the pasture fields, barnyards and streets of a great stretch of territory is washed down for us to drink. Suppose there are no dangerous germs in it as some people say, would it not be worth the investment to have water which did not smell so one is compelled to hold his nose when he drinks and at all times bears at least some resemblance to the clear fluid coming from a spring? It would be an improvement over the nauseating stuff, thick as mud, and, I believe, dangerous to the health of every one who drinks it."

MEASLES IN EAST END.

Dozens of Cases Among the Many Children.

Although the record of the health authorities shows that measles has abated in the city proper and no new cases have been reported for some time the statement is made that a great many children in East End are suffering because of the disease. In a number of families several members are ill, and a well known resident, who has occasion to go from house to house quite frequently, says that the number of single cases is as great as at any time since the epidemic arrived. In one school room with an enrollment of 70 there were present yesterday only 21.

NO MORE RACING.

Steamboat Captains Must Not Indulge In It.

A Cincinnati paper is responsible for the statement that orders have been issued to the commanders of all the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati company's packets forbidding them to race with any craft on the river. These little brushes have been of much interest to passengers, and there is no denying that they vary the monotony of a long trip on the river, but the danger is considered so great that it was deemed advisable to make the regulations on this point clear. The marine laws have a section forbidding racing, but it is not always observed.

Dogs Are Scarce.

The assessors, now nearing the end of their work, state there is a scarcity of dogs. Said one of them: "When we enter a house and ask of their own dogs they invariably say no. Some times we catch an animal in a yard, and it is only then that we are able to make such an assessment."

DR. MARSHALL'S PLAN

He Would Make Pennsylvania Avenue

A VERY GOOD ROADWAY AND WALK

Abundant Room For Vehicles With a Cinder Sidewalk on the Lower Side and a Broad Gutter Which Will Carry Off the Water From the Hill.

The resolution introduced at the last meeting of council by Dr. R. J. Marshall, and providing for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue from a point opposite lot 1579 to the East End school building, is innocent and modest in appearance to suit anyone, but it hides a plan which, when carried into execution, will remove what has long been an eyesore to every public spirited citizen, and provide a way to reach East End without endangering life and limb by accident along the river road, made dangerous by the encroachment of the Ohio on one side and the street railway on the other.

Since the defeat of the proposition to pave the hill road Doctor Marshall has at times had a few words on his favorite plan, but the main idea was not then complete in detail and he had nothing of an official nature to offer. At length, after an end of consultation with engineers regarding the merits of the scheme, and the probable cost of carrying it into execution, he has decided upon a course that will not necessitate the expenditure of much money and will give the city what it has long needed, a good road to East End. There are no puzzling portions, and no argument can be advanced to cover the idea with cold water. It is plain and simple, and means nothing more than what it shows on the surface.

The first part of the plan provides for the widening of the road from the junction of Robinson street and Thompson avenue to the East End school building, the distance that has been nothing more than one long stretch of mud every winter for many years and very rough and stony throughout the summer. Just what this width is to be can only be determined by a survey, and that Engineer George was instructed to do by the resolution. On the side next to the hill will be made a gutter at least four feet wide. This it is estimated will be wide enough to carry off the immense amount of water which now comes off the hill, and after flooding the roadway goes over the other side. This gutter can be so constructed as to meet every requirement, and its cost will not materially add to the price of the improvement.

Next to this is the roadway 20 feet wide. This plan of several years ago was to have this paved, but it has since been decided that an improvement of that kind is not at this time necessary. It would be expensive, and would not serve the purpose as well as a good, hard road. The width is believed necessary because there is a great deal of travel between the city and East End, and a road much narrower would make little difference in the cost. It will also permit of sufficient slope to carry off the water and prevent mud holes.

The last feature proposed is the sidewalk. This can easily be made six feet wide, making the total width of the improvement 30 feet, something that can be obtained without a great deal of cutting from the hill or filling on the river side. It is proposed to make the path of cinders and hard enough to be easily traveled at all seasons of the year without the pedestrian wading ankle deep in all kinds of mud. When completed the improvement would be less than a mile long. It is not the intention to pike the roadway, but by the best possible system of drainage to keep the road dry. Thus a hard, dirt road, the best kind of a driveway, would be the result. The grading would not amount to much, and the benefits derived would be so great that many persons who have heard the details of the plan believe that it will be carried without opposition. Since the river road is a thing of the past, and only the expenditure of a vast amount of money would ever put it in anything like passable condition, there remains but one way by which the East End can be connected with the city, and that is the hill road. The view from that part of the city and the scarcity of good roads in this part of the world could not but make it very popular.

HARD AT WORK.

Ladies Are Fitting Up Spring Grove Hotel.

The ladies of Spring Grove are making rapid progress toward fitting up the dormitory, and are leaving no stone unturned to put it in first-class condition. The Tombstones, if they receive permission, will skin the ball diamond in the grounds, and prepare to meet any and all comers on the home grounds. The season opens Saturday, and a number of families will move out next week.

A New Regulation.

A new regulation compels all Pennsylvania company passenger brakemen to keep their coats buttoned at all times. Failure to comply with the rule means dismissal.

CHILDREN'S EYES.

PHYSICIAN ON THE IMPORTANCE OF CARING FOR THEM.

Dispositions Sometimes Affected by Trouble of the Eyesight—Benefits of Using Properly Adjusted Glasses—Valuable Advice to Parents.

About two years ago a lady brought two of her sons, aged respectively 9 and 11, to me to have their eyes examined to see if glasses were needed. She had taken this step partially on my invitation and as a matter of precaution, as she was well aware that both herself and her husband had defective eyes, and some of her children were already wearing glasses for troubles which were without doubt hereditary. In answer to questions about the general health of the children, their disposition, complaints they made regarding headache, etc., she made the following statement:

"I really am puzzled to know what to do with the older boy. He seems so irritable and cross after a few days at school, and he always seems to be spoiling for a fight. His health seems very good, with the exception of headache after study, but he is not nearly as far advanced in school for his age as his younger brother."

After making a careful examination I prescribed glasses for the older one, but told the mother that the younger one did not need them at the present time. I did not see anything of the children or the mother for six months, at which time, when meeting the mother, she told me the glasses had worked a marvelous change in her son, and he wore them constantly and could not bear to be without them. He was now picking up in his school work and was better natured than she had ever known him before.

This child is only one of many thousands in our schools today who are having their dispositions ruined and are called dull and stupid by their parents and teachers through no fault of their own. Being perhaps born with a defect in sight, they do not know of any different world from that which they see through defective eyes, consequently cannot relate their troubles to their parents, as they are entirely unconscious of their defect. Therefore I wish to emphasize most emphatically that it is the duty of all parents and teachers to mark very closely any peculiarity that children may have in looking at objects at a long distance or close at hand, such as squinting their eyes, frowning, looking sideways from partially closed eyes, and particularly regarding the distance at which they hold their reading matter from their eyes, for it is natural for a child, or for a grown person, for that matter, who has normal sight to hold clearly printed reading matter about 15 inches from his eyes. Should this be varied to any extent, such as drawing the reading quite close to the eyes or holding it at arm's length, it is almost a sure sign that there is something wrong.

People who have strong eyes usually have but little sympathy for those who are less fortunate in this respect.

The necessity of glasses to assist a child in school work, which will put it on a more even footing with the other students, is not appreciated by many parents who are otherwise thoughtful and considerate of the welfare of their children, and who are in many cases undergoing privations that their children may secure an education. Do not be too ready to judge these children as having a fad for glasses or wishing to wear them because some of their playmates do. Better be a little over-cautious in having the child's eyes examined than to take too much responsibility in this matter in your own hands, for no honest optician will advise you to put glasses on a child unless they are sure to prove an advantage.

Another point which I think should be proclaimed loud and long to the different parents is the fact that nine of every ten cases of strabismus (cross eyes) existing among children under the age of 12 can be wholly cured by the very simple and painless method of wearing glasses, whereas if this matter is left until the child has reached maturity it requires a painful operation, which in the majority of cases is not altogether successful then, for it is not alone the matter of appearance that the parents are responsible for. But children who are cross eyed and allowed to remain in this condition any length of time are almost certain to lose the use of one eye wholly or in part, owing to the length of time they are allowed to be born cross eyed, and almost every mother will tell you that this misfortune was due to some sickness, a fall or something of the kind which happened when they were beginning to walk, when in reality the accident or sickness, only marked the time that the child first began to use its eyes to discriminate small objects, and the straining of the eyes to see caused them to cross.

Another reason why many children are allowed to grow up cross eyed is because physicians in general practice have heretofore been so grossly ignorant of these subjects that they have informed the mother that the child would probably outgrow this trouble. This is a mistake. Cross eyes are produced by straining the sight and very rarely, if ever, are outgrown. Babies sometimes have the appearance of being slightly cross eyed, owing to the formation of the lids when they are very small. This, of course, may be outgrown. But when parents notice their child's eyes cross temporarily when looking at an object close at hand, even though they remain so for a few moments only, they will use the best of judgment in having the matter investigated at once. Do not think that an operation will do away with wearing glasses in these cases, for glasses almost invariably go with an operation, and you cannot change this matter, however much you may wish to do so.—Dr. W. I. Seymour in Omaha World-Herald.

NANNY AND THE CUB.

Likes and Dislikes of a Bear That Was Suckled by a Goat.

The bear that figures in the story is known as Jack, and he belongs to Lewis Ford, who formerly owned a goat ranch high up on the Cerro Colorado mountain, overlooking the lovely valley of the San Joaquin.

Ford found the bear when it was a cub, soft, round, shining and black. Being wifeless, childless and alone, he adopted the tiny cub and carried it home. Once there, Ford soon found that a foster mother must be provided for the infant, and so a frightened, trembling, bleating she goat was brought to the house to take the place of the parent he so missed. It was only after much combined force and persuasion the goat could be induced to adopt as her own the unkindlike orphan placed in her care. But the time came when foster mother and foster child were as happy and content in their relations to each other as if the sight of a nimble footed, blue haired "nanny" suckling a clumsy black bear cub was of the most ordinary condition of affairs. The bear waxed fat on goat's milk, and a more docile, tractable beast never grew up under the guardianship of a humane and loving master. In the earlier days of his adoption the baby was a baby in truth. He would not be left alone, and it would have been a harder heart than Ford's that could have resisted the pitiful whimper of the little fellow whenever he thought that he was to be left alone in the house. Had there been any to see it in those days they would have witnessed a strange sight. The great, broad shouldered man, following his flock as they grazed on the bunch grass—sometimes five or six miles from home—and as he walked the steep mountain side, where it was so nearly perpendicular that it seemed that only the goats themselves could gain a foothold on the rocks, carried the cub in his arms.

When Jack grew older, he was trained to herd goats. Previously a number of dogs had helped Ford, but the bear and the dogs could not agree, and so the dogs had to go. Jack took their place well, and they were never missed. For several years the bear continued to help Ford until the latter sold his ranch and prepared to go to his old home in Europe. Then a number of his neighbors tried to buy the bear. Ford refused to sell him and said that if he could not take Jack with him he would not go. The difficulty about shipping the bear was overcome, and now he and his master are enjoying contentedly in the old country, the loving fruits of their long, lonesome stay in the California mountains.—San Francisco Call.

Wagner on Young Von Bulow.

"I have followed the youthful development of your son's life with eagerness and sympathy, without exercising any other influence upon him than that of my example as an artist and of my most cautious advice. I have observed that his love of art, and especially of music, is based upon no mere transient excitement, but upon great—indeed, uncommon—powers. It was with my special concurrence, and indeed at my suggestion, that he went on with his law studies with undiminished zeal, as there is nothing so repugnant to me as a musician who is that alone without any higher general culture. At the wish of his family he applied himself also to the study of jurisprudence. Full of devotion to his mother, he tried hard to take an interest in this study, which, in reality, went dreadfully against his grain. And now what is the perfectly clear and evident result of all his pains and experience? Simply the outspoken, absolute conviction that the more he sets the one thing against the other the more he feels that it is art alone—in other words, music—that he can love unceasingly. This one thing, my dear lady, stands first and foremost as an undeniable fact, and I cannot doubt that, when once you yourself are convinced of this wish of your son to devote himself entirely to music, you will make it your own wish also."—The Early Correspondence of Hans von Bulow.

CLEAN PARIS KITCHENS.

No Ashes or Garbage There, Says Lecturer Clarence Cook.

What becomes of the ashes and garbage in Paris was a question raised and partially answered by Clarence Cook in an address delivered at the regular meeting of the League For Political Education on "Little Housekeeping in Paris." The Paris which Mr. Cook talked about was that of some 25 years ago, when the differences in domestic life in that city and since then New York has adopted the flat system in all its details, but there were still differences, chief among which was the handling of garbage and ashes. In the apartments which Mr. Cook occupied in Paris, and which he described as being delightfully situated, though "on the wrong side of the Seine," according to the ideas of a fashionable friend of his in the American colony, there were no ashes that he could see. The stove consisted of an iron top, with six circular holes in it. Whenever anything was to be cooked an iron basket of charcoal was put into one of these holes, and the food placed over it. When the charcoal was burned, what was left fell through the basket and disappeared.

In the way of food everything came to the apartment fully prepared for cooking. In a mutton chop there was nothing but meat and bone, and when the meat had been eaten the bone was deposited on the charcoal fire. Potatoes were bought already peeled, carrots without their green tops and all green vegetables without any of the superfluous outer leaves or husks or skins which would go to make up garbage. All of this cleaning and peeling was done at the markets, and the resulting material was saved in a clean condition. Even coffee grounds, Mr. Cook said, were used after leaving the flat.

No one in Paris ever bought enough

of anything to be left over, and no one was ashamed to ask the dealer for a single mutton chop or a small portion of any article of food. If there were any garbage or ashes in Paris, Mr. Cook said, no one ever saw either of them, which was certainly different from the experience of a New York resident he told of, who after a year's residence in the city wrote to a friend that life in the metropolis meant the taking care of an ash barrel.—New York Times.

ATTAR OF ROSES.

How This Delicious and Expensive Perfume Is Made.

The word "attar" is from the Arab "ittir," and means perfume. So attar of roses is simply perfume of roses. It is brought from Turkey and the East Indies in small vials and is very costly. Even on the spot where it is manufactured it is extremely dear, because it requires 100,000 well grown roses to yield but 180 grains of attar. Its high price causes it to be often adulterated with some essential oil or oil with spermaceti. However, the adulteration may be detected by testing it in a watch glass with a drop of sulphuric acid. If the attar be pure it will remain colorless, for pure attar of roses is colorless, but if it be adulterated it will become darkened.

In rosefields, where the roses are grown for the purpose of making the attar, the bushes are planted in rows. In the early morning they are laden with beautiful roses, but ere noon comes they are all gathered and their petals distilled in clay stills, with twice their weight of water.

The water that "comes over" is put into perfectly clean vessels and is then carefully covered with damp muslin cloths to keep out dust and insects. It is afterward exposed to the night air or to artificial cold. By morning a film of oil has collected on the top of the water, just as cream rises on milk. This film is swept off with a feather and very carefully transferred to a small vial. Night after night this process is repeated until all of the precious oil is separated from the water.—Philadelphia Times.

EXACTING DISCIPLINE.

Spartan Severity Ruled Philip Gilbert Hamerton in His Childhood.

Philip Gilbert Hamerton was, during his childhood, the victim of a severe and cruel discipline. His father was a man of ungovernable temper and irregular life, who had no sympathy with childish foibles and whose only idea of educating a boy was to "make a man of him."

His method of teaching the lad to ride was to accompany him on a vicious black horse, and when little Philip reined in any of the observances of good riding to punish him with his heavy hand. The whip had a steel hammer at the end of a long handle, and if at any time the owner fancied that the child was turning out his toes he would not say anything, but with cruel dexterity deal him a blow on the foot, sharp enough to make him writhe with pain.

Yet this Spartan severity had its valuable side. The elder Hamerton understood the importance of concentration, and if he saw the boy occupied with several books would say:

"Take one of those books and read it steadily. Don't potter and play with half a dozen."

What he hated most was a lie or the shadow of a lie, and so bitter was this aversion that Philip was sometimes punished unjustly. He was expected to practice with dumbbells 15 minutes every morning. This exercise was taken in the garden, but before beginning he always looked at the clock in the sitting room. One day the father met him and asked:

"Have you done your 15 minutes?"

"Yes, papa."

"That is not true," said his aunt from the next room. "He has only practiced for ten minutes. Look at the clock."

The hand stood at 10 minutes past 11, and though the boy protested that he had begun at ten minutes before the hour the "additional lie" put his father in a fury, and he was ordered to practice continually for two hours. And though the child was ready to drop with fatigue long before the 120 minutes were over, not one of them was remitted.—Youth's Companion.

THE MOST ICY SPOT.

Werkojank, Siberia, Is the Coldest Region of the Globe.

The coldest region of the globe, that of Werkojank, in Siberia, where the lowest temperature of —90 degrees F. has been observed, and the mean of January is —48 degrees F., is inhabited by about 10,500 persons of the Jakut and Lamut races. In a large part of the region, according to the representation of Mr. Georgi Kovalik, in the bulletin of the Geographical society of Irkutsk, the air is so dry and winds are so rare that the intensity of the cold is not fully realized. Farther east there are sometimes terrible storms. In the summer time the temperature sometimes rises to 86 degrees F. in the shade, while it freezes at night. The latter part of this season is often marked by copious rains and extensive inundations.

Vegetation is scanty. There are no trees, only meadows. The people hunt for bearing animals, fish and raise cattle and reindeer. It requires about eight cows to support a family, four being milked in the summer and two in the winter. The cattle are fed hay in the winter and are allowed to go out occasionally when it is not too cold, their feet being carefully covered up with felt. Milk is the principal food, occasionally supplemented with horses, which are quite abundant. The houses are of wood, covered with clay, and consist of one room, in which the people and their animals live together. The wealthier classes are better provided with lodging and food. The people are very hospitable, but excessively punctilious concerning points of honor, such as the place at table.—Popular Science Monthly.

FERRYBOATS.

The Kind That Were In Use a Hundred Years Ago.

The horse boats between the cities of New York and Brooklyn may be cited as early attempts to solve the problem of transport by water. An interesting feature of these early constructions was the use of a water wheel 12 feet or so in diameter, with 24 floats, the latter inclined slightly to the radius so as to avoid the lifting of the water, which is so troublesome a feature of the radial float. These horse boats appear to have been of three general designs. In the first a frame, shaped somewhat like the letter "A" or an inverted "U," was mounted to turn around its vertical axis. Fourteen of these frames, dividing the circle into eight parts, made a sort of skeleton cone, and this cone was caused to revolve by eight horses moving in a horizontal circular path about 20 feet in diameter. The face gear, 15 feet in diameter, drove a three foot pinion mounted upon the axis on the water wheel shaft and the wheels were within the frame in an opening between half hulls.

The second plan was of a conical skeleton frame at an incline of about one in two, so that the horses had to travel up this inclined surface, causing it to rotate with their weight and traction.

In the third plan—a smaller design—the paddle wheels were brought into a well between the two half hulls of the boat, catamaran fashion, as in the first arrangement, and the frame was mounted above the wheels, and its rotating motion was transmitted by intermediate idle wheels to the water wheel shaft. Boats of the first and second class seem to have been about 75 feet long.

It is interesting also to observe that the swinging bridge for ferryboat service had been already thought out by Fulton early in this century, with its counterweight construction and its windlass for making the boats fast. Such boats seem to have drawn a little over two feet of water and to have had perfectly flat bottoms, like scows.—Professor F. R. Hutton in Cassier's Magazine.

Life In Olden England.

In his youth Augustus J. C. Haro lived with his adopted parents at a rectory in Shropshire, and of the life there he gives some picturesque details in the story of his life:

When there was "a wash" at Stoke, which was about every three weeks, it was a rule with granny that, summer or winter, it must always begin at 1 a. m. At that hour old Hannah Berry used to arrive from the village, the coppers were heated and the maids at work. The ladies' maids, who were expected to do all the fine muslins, etc., themselves, had also always to be at the washbuds at 8 a. m.—by candlelight. If the lady was late, the housekeeper reported to Mrs. Lyecester, who was soon down upon them pretty sharply. Generally, however, her real practical kindness and generosity prevented any one minding Mrs. Lyecester's severity. It was looked upon as only "her way," for people were not so tender in those days as they are now, and certainly no servants would have thought of giving up a place which was essentially a good one because they were a little roughly handled by their mistress. In those days servants were as liable to personal chastisement as the children of the house and would as little thought of resenting it. "You don't suppose I'm going to hurt my hand boxing your ears," said granny when about to chastise the school children she was teaching, and she would take up a book from the table and use it soundly, and then say, "Now we mustn't let the other ear be jealous," and turn the child round and lay on again on the other side. Granny constantly boxed her housemaids' ears, and, alas, when her very old, she used to box dear grandpapa's, though she loved him dearly, the great source of offense being that he would sometimes slyly give the servant's elbow a tip when his daily table-spoonful of brandy was being poured out.

Where Golf Resembles War.

"A grand joke developed itself not long ago," says a Monte Video correspondent. "A native paper published alarming paragraphs to the effect that the British war vessels were making soundings and taking surveys and effecting other highly suspicious operations near Maldonado, and that they had landed an armed force with instruments and terrible unknown engines."

"The government was warned to prepare for an invasion or at the very least a second Trinidad affair. These revelations were apparently confirmed by a telegram from a newspaper correspondent in Maldonado, who said that he himself had seen 'those dreadful English' at their tricks."

"Before such a denunciation the authorities could not remain silent, and accordingly an official telegram was sent to the captain of the port at Maldonado for information. His reply was to the following effect:

"It is not true that the English have been making plans of the port or measuring lands at Punta del Este. What they have done is to mark out a course for an English game that they played here before and which is called 'golf.'"

A Story of Beaconsfield.

Lord Beaconsfield was in theory a female suffragist. But his flirtation was of a very platonic character, for, although he had often the power to give practical effect to his pious opinion, he took care never to do so. Once the opposition leaders were very anxious to find out what course he intended to pursue in regard to a certain matter. They turned loose upon him a well known political beauty. She talked and talked, he gazed and gazed. At length she asked him. He pressed her hand, looked unutterable admiration and observed, "My darling!" I remember how my admiration for Lord Beaconsfield rose when I first heard this tale.—London Truth.

WIND JAMMING DAYS.

AN OLD MARINER'S TALES OF BRAVERY IN WRECK.

"On My Honor as a Sailor, I Won't Leave You," Said the Captain to a Swede Sailor. Bravery and Pathos In the Sea Business of the Old Days.

"Bah!" he said. "You have a lot to learn, young man. You have as much sentiment in your construction as this stick I carry."

"The idea of a youth like you trying to tell me that there is as much bravery and pathos attached to seafaring now as there was when I was master of a wind jammer! You probably believe that you are correct in your statement; but, man alive, you are making a fool of yourself. Here in these days you have lifeboats big and stout enough to carry an army of men. You have steam to manipulate the falls, patent davits to swing clear. No lowering away by hands and no getting them back over the side with every pound of flesh a-pulling. Never flung guns for throwing a life line, rafts that won't go to pieces in the first chop of a sea, cork jackets that need no instruction cards, but which go on like a man's vest; pumps that are rusty for want of use, seamless plates and dozens of other inventions in these days. Where were they in the old times?"

"Let me tell you something, I don't say but that there are many brave and gallant mariners in the business now. But the old shipwreck meant more in the matter of life taking than the shipwreck of today does. Did you ever hear tell of a sailor of the old school trying to get into a boat before the passengers were out of danger? You needn't say you have, because you have not. Why, the only ones who ever attempt anything of that kind are stokers and firemen and rowdies who have the impudence to call themselves sailors."

"I remember the case of a shore loafer named Holmes, who tried a shenanigan like that. He was afterward shamed in the United States circuit court at Philadelphia and was convicted of manslaughter. He was one of 30 shipwrecked persons who took to the long boat, which was greatly overloaded and constantly in danger of sinking. Well, this beach rat Holmes and some more of Abraham's men threw overboard 16 passengers, two of whom were women, to lighten the boat. The court held that a sailor is bound by law, if necessary, to sacrifice his life to save the life of passengers. Furthermore the court held that while two sailors might struggle with each other for the possession of the same plank which could save but one, if a passenger were on the plank even if the sailor of necessity would not justify the law in taking it from him. You do not think much of that law? Well, it is the law of God. It is also the law of duty."

"Did you ever hear of the case of Captain Nutman of the ship Aider? He was a good sailor and a gallant master and no matter what many may think, it is possible to be both. His ship foundered, but he refused to be taken off. Do you know why he refused to be taken off? There was an injured man on board, and while the old timbers were going to pieces under his very feet he knelt down and said to the man:

"I won't leave you, lad. On my honor as a sailor I won't."

"On his honor as a sailor he would not leave him. Have you ever heard of anything more touchingly honest? Captain Nutman went down with his ship, but managed to hold on to his man and to get to the bottom of an upturned boat, from which they were afterward rescued. It was a month or so after that when a townsman asked Captain Nutman what the name of the rescued man was."

"He just signed articles in the regular way. I may have heard it then, but I do not know it now. He was a Swede, that's all I know of him."

"The friend shook his head in astonishment as he inquired: "What! A Swede? Take all that chance for a Swede?"

"Why, yes, even for a Swede. I didn't care whether he was a Swede or a Laplander. He was a good sailor and would have done the same for me had things been reversed."

"Nor is that all, young man. There was a shipwreck about 1845, but the name of the craft has escaped my memory. The crew took to one boat, which was overcrowded. A noble Newfoundland, the pet of the ship, swam alongside the boat. All the men turned their eyes sadly upon him, but they knew there was no room for him in that boat. The captain loved that dog better than he loved his life, and he stood up in the boat as he took off his coat and said:

"I cannot see him die like this. Give him my place in the boat. I can hold on to the plank, and he cannot."

"There was a chorus of dissent, and one of the sailors struck the brute over the head with the blade of an oar, which another pulled his sheath knife."

"Don't hurt him," said the captain kindly, but firmly.

"Order him away, then," growled several of the men. "He will swamp us all."

"The captain hesitated a minute, waved his arm in the air and said, 'Back, Prince!' and the faithful brute swam back in the direction in which the vessel had disappeared beneath the surface. Where do you find such pathos in the sea business now? Give me the old sailor every time."

And he hobbled up Beaver street as the young mariner dived into William street.—New York Mail and Express.

All He Asked.

"And do you really want to be my son?" asked the widow Mullins of young Spudds, who had asked for her daughter's hand.

"I can't say that I do," replied the truthful suitor. "I want to be Helen's husband."

WATER OF OHIO CITIES.

Will Be Investigated by the State Board.

THE HEALTH AUTHORITIES MOVE

Something Will Be Learned of the Different Streams and Lakes of the State, and a Map of the Underground Water Supply Will Be Made.

After years of death and disease, due directly to the water supply of scores of cities and towns in Ohio, the state board of health has decided upon a move which will doubtless result in a condition much of an improvement over what exists at the present time.

The action is important because it will affect thousands upon thousands of people who each day drink more or less liquid filth, and fill themselves with disease germs. It is proposed to at once begin a systematic investigation of the condition of the various lakes and rivers of the state as to the quantity and quality of the water given. Accurate gaugings of these water supplies will be made, and monthly examinations, chemical and bacteriological, held, special attention being paid to those which also receive sewage. Of special importance to smaller cities is the purpose to prepare a report upon the underground water supplies of Ohio, together with a geological map in connection with the work. The work will require several years to complete, and during the present year special attention will be given to the Mahoning, Olentangy, and Scioto rivers. Reports will be made from time to time as the investigation of individual streams is completed. The work is specially important in the effect it will have upon the evils arising from the pollution of the water supplies from outside sources. It is also expected to show the necessity of the state assuming control of the matter. The help of the best experts in the country has been obtained.

While the Ohio river is not, strictly speaking, in Ohio, the board will devote to it more or less attention with a view to showing just how much and what kind of filth the people along its banks drink every day. What can be done to purify the stream has not yet been determined, this part of the plan having gone no farther than the stage of discussion. It is the intention, however, of the board to make known the danger constantly present because of an impure water supply.

In speaking of the water supply of this city an engineer who has investigated the matter said: "It would not cost very much money to give this place a fine filtration plant, and I believe it ought to be done. The water of the Ohio is filthy in the extreme, and the color it has after every heavy rain up the stream shows to my mind that all the loose filth in the pasture fields, barnyards and streets of a great stretch of territory is washed down for us to drink. Suppose there are no dangerous germs in it as some people say, would it not be worth the investment to have water which did not smell so one is compelled to hold his nose when he drinks and at all times bears at least some resemblance to the clear fluid coming from a spring? It would be an improvement over the nauseating stuff, thick as mud, and, I believe, dangerous to the health of every one who drinks it."

MEASLES IN EAST END.

Dozens of Cases Among the Many Children.

Although the record of the health authorities shows that measles has abated in the city proper and no new cases have been reported for some time the statement is made that a great many children in East End are suffering because of the disease. In a number of families several members are ill, and a well known resident, who has occasion to go from house to house quite frequently, says that the number of single cases is as great as at any time since the epidemic arrived. In one school room with an enrollment of 70 there were present yesterday only 21.

NO MORE RACING.

Steamboat Captains Must Not Indulge In It.

A Cincinnati paper is responsible for the statement that orders have been issued to the commanders of all the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati company's packets forbidding them to race with any craft on the river. These little all-brushes have been of much interest to passengers, and there is no denying that they vary the monotony of a long trip on the river, but the danger is considered so great that it was deemed advisable to make the regulations on this point clear. The marine laws have a section forbidding racing, but is not always observed.

Dogs Are Scarce.

The assessors, now nearing the end of their work, state there is a scarcity of dogs. Said one of them: "When we enter a house and ask of their owners they invariably say no. Some times we catch an animal in a yard, and it is only then that we are able to make such an assessment."

A DEADLY CLOUDBURST

Canadian Valley, O. T., Flooded Without Warning.

MANY PERSONS WERE DROWNED.

The property loss estimated at nearly $1,000,000—Some of the brave rescuers' perished—A number of lives saved heroically.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 29.—For miles the Canadian valley is a dreary waste, and here the people are overcast with gloom. At sunrise this morning a mighty wall of water, from six to eight feet high and a mile wide, broke upon West Guthrie without warning, crushing houses, sweeping away property and drowning people by the score. Every movable thing was swept away before the wave, which passed on into the valley with relentless force, wrecking terrible destruction to life and property wherever it reached. Dozens of human lives are known to have been sacrificed, how many more will not be known for weeks; hundreds of houses were wrecked; for miles farms were completely ruined, bridges and tracks were washed out and railway traffic in every direction is at a standstill.

The most complete chaos prevails. The efforts of rescuing parties have in many cases proved in vain. Many people floated down stream before they could be reached, and their fate is unknown; others will pass the night in trees in midstream or perched on house tops. It is impossible to estimate the number of the dead. The property loss is placed at something near $1,000,000. Fully two-thirds of the victims were colored people. Business has been suspended in Guthrie, the stores and banks being closed. As though rough an organization for relief as is possible has been made, but all aid has been necessarily retarded by the confused condition of things. It will be impossible to explore the houses until the water shall subside, as many of them are submerged.

The river is 30 feet above its ordinary level. A heavy rain added to the terror of the people. A threatened bank of clouds came up from the north-west and many persons fled to their tornado cellars, fearing that another disaster was upon them. Luckily, however, the damage was slight.

The flood is supposed to have been caused by a cloudburst supplemented by heavy rains. In the southwestern part of the city a long arm of land is formed by the winding of the river. On this land lived hundreds of negroes. During the night the bridge leading across the river to the main section had been swept away. The people were absorbed in watching the rising waters when the floods from the reservoirs came down in a solid wall and cut across the arm of land near the main land, cutting off the people from escape. They fled from their homes to the higher portions of the newly formed island. In half an hour the mountain of water had done its work and practically spent itself. The air became hideous with the crashing of houses and the cries for help of the unfortunates.

When the first shock of the disaster was over the more fortunate on the island immediately began to help those nearest them, while across in Guthrie proper prompt steps were taken at rescue. The houses, barns and other effects began to drift down stream, and freighted with one or more human beings; boats and rafts shot out here and there from the shore and desperate efforts were made to rescue the people. Impaired rats were quickly thrown together and started out into the mad stream. Before many of them had been propelled a couple of yards from shore they were listed and broken by the water and the would-be rescuers thrown into the stream. Half a dozen rescuers were drowned even before those they had tried to save had been reached.

An old negro woman was seen clinging to a house top. The building soon tumbled over and she was drowned. Three men, Walter Olds, John Vandusen and Eugene Gilla, sought rescue on an old man from a tree. Their raft struck an overhanging tree and they barely saved themselves by clambering into another tree. They were finally rescued on a rope sent to them by means of a shotgun and cord.

Gus Platt, business manager of the Guthrie Leader and George Willis, a merchant tailor, swam the river at the risk of their lives and secured a boat, by which a number of persons were saved.

A negro woman with a babe in her arms desperately tried to steady herself in a tree top, calling the while for help. She grew weak and the baby slipped into the water and was drowned. She was finally rescued and said her family of six had been lost.

A woman wading from home with her baby on her head was seen to go under, and a man swimming the channel to reach four women and a baby in a tree, was carried down stream. Two women and a child were carried away on a bridge farther down stream, and one man and two women, in plain sight of those who were on a house roof when it went to pieces. They all perished.

Adjutant General Jameson of the territorial militia narrowly escaped with his family. He was forced to wade and lead his horse with his family in the buggy.

John Metz, aged 55, was capsized while trying to save a woman, who sunk before he reached her. Metz himself was barely rescued.

George Owens, Attorney Teague Ray and Dick Pearson were precipitated into the water while trying to save some people and Owens was drowned.

The wife and five children of Wesley McGill, colored, were drowned in their home.

Forty or fifty people could be seen clinging to trees and roofs of buildings, but could not be reached, and many drown.

The fate of many others, who are known to have been carried down stream, will not be known till daybreak and perhaps not then.

It is impossible to get any definite news from the hundreds of rescued people on the bluffs west of the city. Those who escaped are rushing frantically about in search of missing ones.

The river is going down rapidly.

The wildest stories were afloat. Many were claiming that 50 lives had been lost, and not infrequently men were heard claiming that fully 200 had perished. These wild estimates were unquestionably exaggerated, but lives were lost in the flood in every direction, in plain view of the few who were heroically carrying on the work of rescue and of the many who stood helplessly at the edge of the raging waters. Men, women and children struggled in the torrent, side by side with horses, cattle and swine, one perishing here, another there, and in other places several disappearing together beneath the flood.

The bodies recovered are those of the following:
Anna Kaiser, a school teacher.
Frank Mayers.
Others known to have been drowned are:

George Owens.
J. H. Calhoun, wife and child.
Charles Rufner and wife.
Rastus McGill.
Lena Burk.
Mrs. Watt.
Mrs. Wesley McGill and five children.
John Metz.
Mrs. H. James Montgomery.
Mrs. Dammills.
Jim Lilly.
Mrs. Dumas.

It is believed that loss of life has also occurred south of Guthrie, along the Cottonwood river. Many farmhouses in that district are reported to have been swept away. Seven miles south of here, at Seward, Hunt's store and the postoffice were swept away.

Four thousand dollars were raised in Guthrie for the relief of the sufferers. The Cottonwood river, ordinarily a small stream that winds between steep banks in West Guthrie, was bank full from a heavy rain, but no alarm had been felt, as the river had been rising gradually. However, waters from a cloudburst above had been added to those already nearly up to the level of the high banks, and the flood was sweeping through West Guthrie, a section populated mostly by colored people. Persons who saw the first wall of water said that it was about 18 feet high, spreading entirely across the valley.

There was no water in front of it save that in the river channels. The first wave was followed by others in quick succession, until the whole settled into a bank of water from six to eight feet high. Many had already begun carrying their household goods to places of safety, but few had made more than one trip when they were forced to flee for their lives before a raging, resistless torrent that no power of man could hope to stay.

The main supply pipe of the waterworks system burst where it crossed the Cottonwood, in the southern part of the city, and all the water in the reservoirs poured into the river.

To my patrons, and those contemplating building, permit me to state: I have made plans and constructed the building for more than three times the number of any other one Architect in this county, during my nine years practice in this city, and in each case devoted careful study that I might not cause you to expend one dollar where it was not required, and yet give you a building free from cracked or settled walls, both interior and exterior, free from unsightly cast iron plates on the inside of your building, or cumbersome "hog chains" extending down in your finished rooms to support a roof, as some are in this city, constructed by those professing to know better. I guarantee you a saving in each building of many times what the plans cost you, and the most substantial of structures. We profit by other people's mistakes. We study. We are progressive. We put strength where it belongs. It was the uneducated and illiterate Egyptians who constructed their buildings with 10 to 14 foot thick walls, regardless of size of building, because their forefathers did the same. Science has taught practical architects that necessity demands practical economy. We are up to date on any style building you want. Make your blue print copies of your plans. Type written specifications, duplicate or triplicate copies when desired. Make your neat sketches of all contemplated building, free of charge, as all first-class architects do. We charge you a reasonable compensation for our work, which we allow you to determine. While with some "half a loaf is better than none." Beware of the man who proposes to make your plans for nothing. Somebody's going to pay dear for them in the end. We are too busy to announce all the leading points on this subject. We are completing the 32d cost plan for plans since January, '07. Call and see me.

A DEADLY CLOUDBURST

Canadian Valley, O. T., Flooded Without Warning.

MANY PERSONS WERE DROWNED.

The Property Loss Estimated at Nearly $1,000,000—Some of the Brave Rescuers Perished—A Number of Lives Saved Heroically.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 29.—For miles the Canadian valley is a dreary waste, and here the people are overcast with gloom. At sunrise this morning a mighty wall of water, from six to eight feet high and a mile wide, broke upon West Guthrie without warning, crushing houses, sweeping away property and drowning people by the score. Every movable thing was swept away before the wave, which passed on into the valley with relentless force, wrecking terrible destruction to life and property wherever it reached. Dozens of human lives are known to have been sacrificed, how many more will not be known for weeks; hundreds of houses were wrecked; for miles farms were completely ruined, bridges and tracks were washed out and railway traffic in every direction is at a standstill.

The most complete chaos prevails. The efforts of rescuing parties have in many cases proved in vain. Many people floated down stream before they could be reached, and their fate is unknown; others will pass the night in trees in midstream or perched on house tops. It is impossible to estimate the number of the dead. The property loss is placed at something near $1,000,000. Fully two-thirds of the victims were colored people. Business has been suspended in Guthrie, the stores and banks being closed. As though rough an organization for relief as is possible has been made, but all aid has been necessarily retarded by the confused condition of things. It will be impossible to explore the houses until the water shall subside, as many of them are submerged.

The river is 30 feet above its ordinary level. A heavy rain added to the terror of the people. A threatened bank of clouds came up from the north-west and many persons fled to their tornado cellars fearing that another disaster was upon them. Luckily, however, the damage was slight.

The flood is supposed to have been caused by a cloudburst supplemented by heavy rains.

In the southwestern part of the city a long arm of land is formed by the winding of the river. On this land lived hundreds of negroes. During the night the bridge leading across the river to the main section had been swept away. The people were absorbed in watching the rising waters when the floods from the reservoirs came down in a solid wall and cut across the arm of land near the main land, cutting off the people from escape. They fled from their homes to the higher portions of the newly formed island. In half an hour the mountain of water had done its work and practically spent itself. The air became hideous with the crashing of houses and the cries for help of the unfortunates.

When the first shock of the disaster was over the more fortunate on the island immediately began to help those nearest them, while across in Guthrie proper prompt steps were taken at rescue. The houses, barns and other effects began to drift down stream, and freighted with one or more human beings; boats and rafts shot out here and there from the shore and desperate efforts were made to rescue the people. Improvised rafts were quickly thrown together and started out into the mad stream. Before many of them had been propelled a couple of yards from shore they were listed and broken by the water and the would-be rescuers thrown into the stream. Half a dozen rescuers were drowned even before those they had tried to save had been reached.

An old negro woman was seen clinging to a house top. The building soon turned over and she was drowned. Three men, Walter Olds, John Vandusen and Eugene Gilla, sought to rescue an old man from a tree. Their raft struck an overhanging tree and they barely saved themselves by clinging to another tree. They were finally rescued on a rope sent to them by means of a shotgun and cord.

Gus Platt, business manager of the Guthrie Leader and George Willis, a merchant tailor, swam the river at the risk of their lives and secured a boat, by which a number of persons were saved.

A negro woman with a babe in her arms desperately tried to steady herself in the tree, calling the while for help. She was weak and the baby slipped into the water and was drowned. She was finally rescued and said her family of six had been lost.

A woman waded from home with her baby on her head was seen to go under, and a man swimming the channel to reach four women and a baby in a tree, was carried down stream. Two women and a child were carried away on a bridge further down stream, and one man and two women, in plain sight of shore were on a house roof when it was blown off. They all perished.

Adjutant General Jameson of the territorial militia narrowly escaped with his family. He was forced to wade and lead his horse with his family in the buggy.

John Metz, aged 55, was capized while trying to save a woman, who sunk before he reached her. Metz himself was barely rescued.

George Owens, Attorney Teague Ray and Dick Pearson were precipitated into the water while trying to save some people and Owens was drowned.

The wife and five children of Wesley McGill, colored, were drowned in their home. Forty or fifty people could be seen clinging to trees and roofs of buildings, but could not be reached and many drown. The fate of many others, who are known to have been carried down stream, will not be known till daybreak and perhaps not then.

It is impossible to get any definite news from the hundreds of rescued people on the bluffs west of the city. Those who escaped are rushing frantically about in search of missing ones. The river is going down rapidly.

The wildest stories were afloat. Many were claiming that 50 lives had been lost, and not infrequently men were heard claiming that fully 200 had perished. These wild estimates were unquestionably exaggerated, but lives were lost in the flood in every direction, in plain view of the few who were heroically carrying on the work of rescue and of the many who stood helpless at the edge of the raging waters. Men, women and children struggled in the torrent, side by side with horses, cattle and swine, one perishing here, another there, and in other places several disappearing together beneath the flood.

The bodies recovered are those of the following:
Anna Kaiser, a school teacher.
Frank Mayers.
Others known to have been drowned are:

George Owens.
J. H. Callison, wife and child.
Charles Ruffner and wife.
Rastus McGill.
Lena Burk.
Mrs. Watt.
Mrs. Wesley McGill and five children.
John Metz.
Mrs. H. James Montgomery.

The wheelmen are complaining bitterly about the amount of glass in the streets, and think the officers should see that the practice of breaking bottles in the streets comes to a sudden end.

The athletic field at Rock Spring grounds will be laid out this week, and work will be started at once. The bicycle path from the end of the bridge to the grounds will be built soon.

A drunk trying to make himself at home yesterday in a down town hotel was promptly ejected by the proprietor. When he walked out he said: "I thank you for your kindness." And then everybody saw blue smoke.

David McBride, an employee of the Kokomo pottery, arrived in the city last evening for a short visit with his mother. He says the new plant at Kokomo is rapidly nearing completion, and it is expected to begin operations in full, June 1.

A team driven by Roy Rinehart became frightened in Sixth street last evening. They started to run, and narrowly escaped striking the fence around the monument. The driver got them under control before any damage was done.

A well known bicyclist last evening made the suggestion that as rubber tired buggies are becoming numerous and horsemen are deadening the sound of their horses' hoofs, it would be well for council to pass an ordinance compelling them to ring a bell at every crossing.

A. W. SCOTT, Architect.

To my patrons, and those contemplating building, permit me to state: I have made plans and constructed the building for more than three times the number of any other one Architect in this county, during my nine years practice in this city, and in each case devoted careful study to it, might not cause you to expend one dollar where it was not required, and yet give you a building free from cracked or settled walls, both interior and exterior, free from unsightly cast iron plates on the side of your building, or cumbersome "hog chains" extending down in your finished rooms to support a roof, as some are in this city, constructed by those professing to know better. I guarantee you a saving in each building of many times what the plans cost you, and the most substantial of structures. We profit by other people's mistakes. We study. We are progressive. We put strength where it belongs. It was the unlearned and illiterate Egyptians who constructed their buildings with 9 to 14 foot thick walls, regardless of size of building, because their forefathers did the same. Science has taught practical architects that necessity demands practical economy. We are up to date on any style building you want. Make your blue print copies of your plans. Type written specifications. Duplicate or triplicate copies when desired. Make your neat sketches of all contemplated building, free of charge, as all first-class architects do. We will give you a reasonable compensation for our work, which we allow you to determine, while with some "half a loaf is better than no loaf" Beware of the man who proposes to make your plans for nothing. Somebody's going to pay dear for them in the end. We are too busy to announce all the leading points on this subject. We are completing the 23d contract for plans since January, '97. Call and see me.

A GIRL, A WATCH, A TEN

Made Up a Combination To Annoy Her Father

AND MADE A JEWELER THINK

She Gave a Fictitious Name, and Paid Something on the Timepiece, But When Her Parent Intrusted Her With Money the Temptation to Leave Was Strong.

A short time ago a well known young woman appeared at a jewelry store in the city, and wished to buy a watch upon the installment plan. She made several visits to the store and finally a bargain was arranged the young lady purchasing a $35 timepiece and paying $10 down, the rest to be paid in monthly payments. She gave her name to the collector and the place where she worked and the affair was forgotten until the collector went after the first payment. When he arrived at the factory, where the young woman said she worked, he had no trouble in finding a young lady answering the name he had on his book. She disclaimed all knowledge of the affair and investigation proved she was not the party for whom he was looking. No person in the store knew the young woman who had purchased the watch and diligent search was made for her.

Her identity was discovered yesterday but it was too late. On Tuesday afternoon her father had given her $10 with which to purchase some linoleum, but at supper time she had not arrived. Her parents were not uneasy, however, as they supposed she had decided to remain in the city for supper, but when it reached a late hour and she was not home her anxious father started in search of her. It was found she had never been near the furniture store to purchase the linoleum, and later it was discovered she had taken the evening train for parts unknown, carrying the watch and ten with her. Nothing has been heard from her since, and the anxious parents are almost distracted.

A REPORT.

The Grand Jury Return Some Men For Trial.

LISBON, April 29.—[Special.]—The grand jury made a partial return of their work to Clerk King this morning. It contains 19 indictments, and is as follows:

Joseph Marshall, Salem, assault with intent to kill; James Fillela, Lisbon, cutting to wound; James Rudden, Leetonia, shooting to kill; Samuel Hayes, Liverpool, failure to support child; Sebastian Calayan, Leetonia, pointing firearms and discharging same; Joe Goddard, Elk Run, assault and battery; A. Gillespie, Middleton, larceny. With the exception of two, the remainder are against Frank Egbert, proprietor of the Hotel Cowan, in this place, for illegal liquor selling.

The court has given to the D. Lutz & Son Brewing Co. a judgment against M. Nelson, of Liverpool, for $2,307.

The jury in the case of Harvey against Boyce rendered a verdict for the plaintiff this afternoon for $486.

TO TALK OF A CHAPEL

The Grand Army Will Hold an Important Meeting.

MONEY ALMOST ALL IN HAND

There is No Longer Any Doubt That the Building Will Be Erected This Year. Gift of the Cemetery Association is Appreciated.

The Grand Army boys will hold one of the most important meetings of the year tomorrow evening, the subject being the completion of the plans to erect a memorial chapel in Riverview cemetery.

The sum and land donated by the trustees of Riverview cemetery at a meeting held early this week, has done so much toward helping the cause along that it has been decided to delay no longer, and active operations will be commenced as soon as possible. It is the intention of the old soldiers to have the chapel built this year, and they realize that to gain this end work must begin at once. Fred G. Croxall, who has charge of the fund, has now in his possession $5,500, and the gift from the cemetery will raise that sum to $6,700. It was the intention of the post to raise $10,000 for this purpose, and the amount now at hand will in all probability be collected by private subscription. Preliminary plans for the building are being drawn, and may be completed in time to be presented at the meeting tomorrow night.

THE MAYOR'S GUESTS.

A Longer List Than Is Usually Found.

Miss Mary Jones called on the mayor for information. She had a trunk, but could not get possession of it as Claudie Marshall, who has a flat in a Smoky row apartment house, had it. It was a matter of a board bill, and the mayor referred her to a justice.

The pair of steady boarders will be allowed to go tomorrow.

Jack Delaney was arrested last night for disorderly conduct. He was fined $6.60 this afternoon.

"Down Brakes, and Reverse!"

When a train is discovered rushing on to a collision, it is a thrilling sight as the engineer whistles "Down Brakes!" and reverses his lever.

The system is flying along the track at such a frightful pace that no ordinary methods will prevent disaster. There are plenty of medicines which act merely as brakes to "slow up" the disease and put off disaster for a little while, but that isn't enough. What is needed is a medicine that will instantly reverse the entire wasting, degenerating process.

When people are losing flesh and strength and vitality, with the life ebbing out of them day after day, they need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which acts directly upon the vital forces, completely transforms the entire nutritive organism and totally reverses the wasting, debilitating process which is at the root of all diseases.

It enables the digestive and blood-making organs to supply the circulation with an abundance of pure, healthy, red blood. It stops the wasting of tissue, builds up solid muscular flesh and healthy nerve-force. Miss Mary Whitman, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "For nearly ten months I have had a bad cough, and instead of getting better, it grew worse, until I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I hesitated at first, for it seemed to me nothing would give relief only death. My parents were anxious about me, and I was said to have consumption. I tried your medicines, and before I had taken many doses, there was a great change. When the second bottle was empty I had no cough and was a great deal stronger."

WHO SAYS SO?

Everybody Who has Used Them and Some of Them are East Liverpool People.

Who told you so?
Neighbor So-and-so.
Oh, well! That's all right.
Testimony differs, doesn't it?
The more some people say
The less faith we have.
But the right man's word
Is taken at once.

That's the difference.
People want East Liverpool reference, particularly in matters of health. We tell you Doan's Kidney Pills cure. But who are the makers of them.

"Who says so?" counts here, doesn't it? East Liverpool people say so. And we give you their addresses. Perhaps you may know them.

Active lives bring on kidney troubles. An example of this is:

Mr. G. H. Garner, of 168 Jackson st., the well-known manufacturer of ice cream, says: "I think my trouble started from a cold. It set in with a soreness and stiffness over my whole body; my appetite was poor, and I was troubled with a good deal with a bloating at the stomach. There was also a urinary difficulty, and I felt in fact generally used up, and as though I was breaking down. I tried two or three different remedies, but they did not do me the least good. I seem if anything to be getting worse."

Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly spoken of I made up my mind I would try them and procured a box at the W. and W. Pharmacy. I had not taken over half the box before I was entirely free from all my trouble, my appetite good and my old time vigor restored. I have recommended them to many of my friends, among them Mr. E. J. Green, V. S., and they all speak of them in the highest terms. I can honestly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills in every particular, knowing them to be a No. 1 and well worth a trial by anyone."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents, or sent by mail by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Mexican Railroads.

Charles H. Clark of the Hartford Courant, now traveling in Mexico, writes: "One custom prevails on this road that the Courant has long urged for Connecticut. Wherever they kill a man they put up a black cross. You see them all along the road; here 1, there 8; at one spot are 14. Take Connecticut, with its 1,100 grade crossings and its annual butcheries, and before long we would have such an array of crosses that the grade crossing would have to go. Here, of course, the road is the rarity. No fence pens in the railroad. If anything is on the track, the engine removes it. A train hand told me that, one trip being late, they hurried, and in consequence killed three steers and five butts in eight hours. All along the track are skeletons stripped by the turkey buzzards and whitened by the sun. But cattle are as plenty as they are big down this way."

GREEKS AGAIN BEATEN

This Time They Are Badly Whipped In Epirus.

PRINCE GEORGE MAY BE KING.

A Rumor That the King Will Abolish in His Favor—The Powers Trying to Agree on a Plan to Stop the War—Excitement in Athens.

LONDON, April 29.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Patras says:

"The Greeks have suffered their first great reverse in Epirus and the situation has changed with startling suddenness. When I last telegraphed the Turks were in full and disorderly retreat toward Janina and the Greeks were joyously advancing. For some unaccountable reason the absurdly inadequate force of only 1,000 men was detached from Philippia to seize Pentapogadia. On entering Pentapogadia some irregulars by mistake fired upon the Greeks. During the confusion which followed 3,000 Turkish infantry arrived from Janina and instantly attacked the Greeks."

"A desperate and bloody hand-to-hand encounter ensued. The Turks uttered demoniacal yells and showed the greatest ferocity, while the Greeks, who had been without food all night long and were hopelessly outnumbered, were taken at considerable disadvantage. An hour after the fight began two companies

ies of Turks occupied a hill on the Greek flank and opened a deadly fire. The Greeks broke in confusion and fled in panic. With the greatest difficulty their officers rallied them and led them back to the front, where they renewed the battle against overpowering odds.

"Major Constantino commanded them. All day he and his men fought the Turks from behind a rock for five hours, until he was killed."

"At 7 o'clock in the evening the Greek ammunition failed. The men were faint from want of food and the retreat call was sounded."

"A second Greek force of infantry, cavalry and field artillery, advancing by another road, arrived at an hour too late. This also retreated in great disorder. The Turks now hold Pentapogadia, which might, however, be attacked by artillery. The Greeks are greatly depressed and discouraged."

"The retreat is much discussed here, and no one can explain it except upon the hypothesis that there was a risk of the Turks disembarking a force at Preveza and so cutting off our escape. The Greeks have suffered a reverse, but Greek honor is not lost."

PARIS, April 29.—The Matin declares that the supersession of Prince Constantine, if made by a royal decree is equivalent to his renunciation of his rights to the throne.

Continuing, The Matin asserts that the replacing of the premier, M. Delcasse, by M. Ralli, the opposition leader, will not serve to arrest the course of popular indignation against the royal family, adding that the ministerial crisis therefore only precedes a dynastic crisis by a few days.

King George is credited with desiring to abdicate in favor of his second son, Prince George.

ATHENS, April 29.—Public excitement is increasing every hour. The foreigners are hoisting their national flags over the buildings inhabited by them. A popular outbreak is feared.

Crowds stoned the palace, broke its windows and cried: "Down with the king; down with Prince Constantine; give us a republic."

Some pistols were fired among the rioters and many officers were mobbed.

PARIS, April 29.—The following official announcement of this dispatch was made: "Four parliaments between Paris, London, Rome and St. Petersburg, with the view of attempting mediation between Turkey and Greece, are holding very active and are now assuming more precise form. It is hoped the opportunity to mediate will arise before long. Germany and Austria are kept informed of the progress of the negotiation and do not disapprove of them."

A SWELL IN TROUBLE.

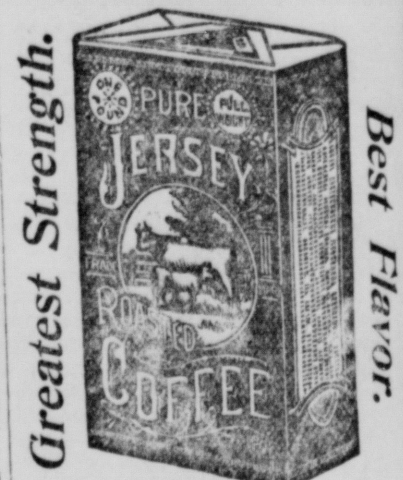

Arrested on a Forgery Charge and Rejected by His Girl.

CLEVELAND, April 29.—Samuel Devdiox, who has been cutting quite a swell in society here for some time past, has not only been arrested on a charge of forgery but the girl to whom he was engaged to be married sent back his diamond ring and asked for her photograph.

David met Miss Mamie Langeau of Lakewood, the daughter of a wealthy business man, about a month ago. He at once began paying court to her and soon won her consent to marriage. Her father consented to the marriage and the marriage was looked forward to with interest.

When Miss Langeau heard of his arrest she at once returned his ring and asked for her photograph. David said that he was innocent of wrong doing. He refused to discuss his relations with Miss Langeau, but said he would return her photograph.

A GIRL, A WATCH, A TEN

Made Up a Combination To Annoy Her Father

AND MADE A JEWELER THINK

She Gave a Fictitious Name, and Paid Something on the Timepiece, But When Her Parent Inquired Her With Money the Temptation to Leave Was Strong.

A short time ago a well known young woman appeared at a jewelry store in the city, and wished to buy a watch upon the installment plan. She made several visits to the store and finally a bargain was arranged the young lady purchasing a $35 timepiece and paying $10 down, the rest to be paid in monthly payments. She gave her name to the collector and the place where she worked and the affair was forgotten until the collector went after the first payment. When he arrived at the factory, where the young woman said she worked, he had no trouble in finding a young lady answering the name he had on his book. She disclaimed all knowledge of the affair and investigation proved she was not the party for whom he was looking. No person in the store knew the young woman who had purchased the watch and diligent search was made for her.

Her identity was discovered yesterday but it was too late. On Tuesday afternoon her father had given her $10 with which to purchase some linoleum, but at supper time she had not arrived. Her parents were not uneasy, however, as they supposed she had decided to remain in the city for supper, but when it reached a late hour and she was not home her anxious father started in search of her. It was found she had never been near the furniture store to purchase the linoleum, and later it was discovered she had taken the evening train for parts unknown, carrying the watch and ten with her. Nothing has been heard from her since, and the anxious parents are almost distracted.

A REPORT.

The Grand Jury Return Some Men For Trial.

Lisbon, April 29.—[Special.]—The grand jury made a partial return of their work to Clerk King this morning. It contains 19 indictments, and is as follows:

Joseph Marshall, Salem, assault with intent to kill; James Fillela, Lisbon, cutting to wound; James Rudden, Leetonia, shooting to kill; Samuel Hayes, Liverpool, failure to support child; Sebastian Calayan, Leetonia, pointing firearms and discharging same; Joe Goddard, Elk Run, assault and battery; A. Gillespie, Middleton, larceny. With the exception of two, the remainder are against Frank Egbert, proprietor of the Hotel Cowan, in this place, for illegal liquor selling.

The court has given to the D. Lutz & Son Brewing Co. a judgment against M. Nelson, of Liverpool, for $2,307.

The jury in the case of Harvey against Boyce rendered a verdict for the plaintiff this afternoon for $486.

Commissioner Samuel Bye has purchased the Briggs and Morrow hardware store in this place.

TO TALK OF A CHAPEL

The Grand Army Will Hold an Important Meeting.

MONEY ALMOST ALL IN HAND

There Is No Longer Any Doubt That the Building Will Be Erected This Year. Gift of the Cemetery Association Is Appreciated.

The Grand Army boys will hold one of the most important meetings of the year tomorrow evening, the subject being the completion of the plans to erect a memorial chapel in Riverview cemetery.

The sum and land donated by the trustees of Riverview cemetery at a meeting held early this week, has done so much toward helping the cause along that it has been decided to delay no longer, and active operations will be commenced as soon as possible. It is the intention of the old soldiers to have the chapel built this year, and they realize that to gain this end work must begin at once. Fred G. Croxall, who has charge of the fund, has now in his possession $5,500, and the gift from the cemetery will raise that sum to $6,700. It was the intention of the post to raise $10,000 for this purpose, and the amount not now at hand will in all probability be collected by private subscription. Preliminary plans for the building are being drawn, and may be completed in time to be presented at the meeting tomorrow night.

THE MAYOR'S GUESTS.

A Longer List Than Is Usually Found.

Miss Mary Jones called on the mayor for information. She had a trunk, but could not get possession of it as Claudie Marshall, who has a flat in a Smoky row apartment house, had it. It was a matter of a board bill, and the mayor referred her to a justice.

The pair of steady boarders will be allowed to go tomorrow.

Jack Delaney was arrested last night for disorderly conduct. He was fined $6.60 this afternoon.

Changed Places.

Owing to a mistake in the Cleveland mailing department the Gambier mail was sent to this city on the noon train, and the mail for this city went to Gambier.

"Down Brakes, and Reverse!"

Miss Mary Whitman, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "For nearly ten months I have had a bad cough, and instead of getting better, it grew worse, until I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I hesitated at first, for it seemed to me nothing would give relief only death. My parents were anxious about me, and I was said to have consumption. I tried your medicines, and before I had taken many doses there was a great change. When the second bottle was empty I had no cough and was a great deal stronger."

WHO SAYS SO?

Everybody Who has Used Them and Some of Them are East Liverpool People.

Who told you so? Neighbor So-and-so. Oh, well! That's all right. Testimony differs, doesn't it? The more some people say The less faith we have. But the right man's word Is taken at once.

That's the difference. People want East Liverpool directly. Particularly in matters of health.

We tell you Doan's Kidney Pills cure. But we are the makers of them.

"Who says so?" counts here, doesn't it? East Liverpool people say so, And we give you their addresses. Perhaps you may know them. Active lives bring on kidney troubles.

An example of this is:

Mr. G. H. Garner, of 168 Jackson st., the well-known manufacturer of the cream, says: "I set in with a soreness and stiffness over my whole body; my appetite was poor, and I was troubled a good deal with a bloating at the stomach. There was also a urinary difficulty, and I felt in fact generally used up and as though I was breaking down. I tried two or three different remedies, but they did not do me the least good. I seem if anything to be getting worse. Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills, I highly spoke of I made up my mind I would try them and procured a box at the W. and W. Pharmacy. I had not taken over half the box before I was entirely free from all my trouble, my appetite good and my old time vigor restored. I have recommended them to many of my friends, among them Mr. P. J. Green, V. S., and they all speak of them in the highest terms. I can honestly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills in every particular, knowing them to be A No. 1 and well worth a trial by any one."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, price 50 cents, or sent by mail by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Mexican Railroads.

Charles H. Clark of the Hartford Courant, now traveling in Mexico, writes: "One custom prevails on this road that The Courant has long urged for Connecticut. Wherever they kill a man they put up a black cross. You see them all along the road; here I, there 3; at one spot are 14. Take Connecticut, with its 1,100 grade crossings and its annual butcheries, and before long we would have such an array of crosses that the grade crossing would have to go. Here, of course, the road is the rarity. No fence pens in the railroad. If anything is on the track, the engine removes it. A train hand told me that, one trip being late, they hurried, and in consequence killed three steers and five burros in eight hours. All along the track are skeletons stripped by the turkey buzzards and whitened by the sun. But cattle are as plenty as they are big down this way."

GREEKS AGAIN BEATEN

This Time They Are Badly Whipped In Epirus.

PRINCE GEORGE MAY BE KING.

A Rumor That the King Will Abdicate In His Favor—The Powers Trying to Agree on a Plan to Stop the War—Excitement In Athens.

LONDON, April 29.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Patras says: "The Greeks have suffered their first great reverse in Epirus and the situation has changed with startling suddenness. When I last telegraphed the Turks were in full and disorderly retreat toward Janina and the Greeks were joyously advancing. For some unaccountable reason the absurdly inadequate force of only 1,000 men was detached from Philippia to seize Pontepigadia. On entering Pontepigadia some irregulars by mistake fired upon the Greeks. During the confusion which followed 3,000 Turkish infantry arrived from Janina and instantly attacked the Greeks.

"A desperate and bloody hand-to-hand encounter ensued. The Turks uttered demoniacal yells and showed the greatest ferocity, while the Greeks, who had been without food all night long and were hopelessly outnumbered, were taken at considerable disadvantage. An hour after the fight began two companies

ies of Turks occupied a hill on the Greek flank and opened a deadly fire. The Greeks broke in confusion and fled in panic. With the greatest difficulty their officers rallied them and led them back to the front, where they renewed the battle against overpowering odds.

"Major Constantino commanded them. All day he fought in the front line. Two horses were shot under him and he was twice wounded, but he seemed to bear a charmed life. A Greek lieutenant, an Italian volunteer and five privates rushed upon the Turks. Five of the seven dropped dead before they got anywhere near the enemy and the sixth was wounded. Another private, when the Greeks fled, fought the Turks from behind a rock for five hours, until he was killed.

"At 7 o'clock in the evening the Greek ammunition failed. The men were faint from want of food and the retreat call was sounded.

"A second Greek force of infantry, cavalry and field artillery, advancing by another road, arrived an hour too late. This also retreated in great disorder. The Turks now hold Pontepigadia, which might, however, be attacked by artillery. The Greeks are greatly depressed and discouraged.

"The retreat is much discussed here, and no one can explain it except upon the hypothesis that there was a risk of the Turks disembarking a force at Prevesa and so cutting off our escape. The Greeks have suffered a reverse, but Greek honor is not lost."

PARIS, April 29.—The Matin declares that the suppression of Prince Constantine, if made by a royal decree, is equivalent to his renunciation of his rights to the crown.

Continuing, The Matin asserts that the replacing of the premier, M. Delcasse, by M. Ralli, the opposition leader, will not serve to arrest the course of popular indignation against the royal family, adding that the ministerial crisis therefore only precedes a dynastic crisis by a few days.

King George is credited with desiring to abdicate in favor of his second son, Prince George.

ATHENS, April 29.—Public excitement is increasing every hour. The foreboding rumors are heaving their national flags over the buildings inhabited by them. A popular outbreak is feared.

Crowds stoned the palace, broke its windows and cried: "Down with the king; down with Prince Constantine; give us a republic."

Some pistols were fired among the rioters and many officers were mobbed. PARIS, April 29.—The following official announcement of this dispatch was made: "Four parlers between Paris, London, Rome and St. Petersburg, with the view of attempting mediation between Turkey and Greece have been very active and are now assuming more precise form. It is hoped the opportunity to mediate will arise before long. Germany and Austria are kept informed of the progress of the negotiation and do not disapprove of them."

A SWELL IN TROUBLE.

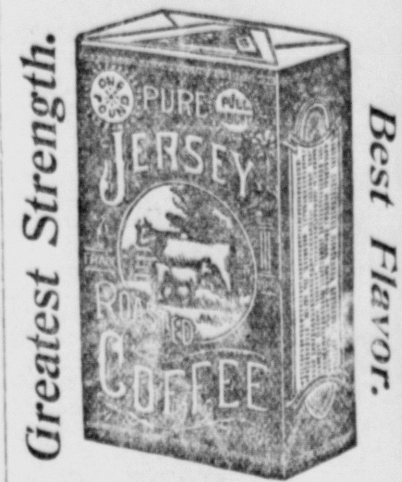

Arrested on a Forgery Charge and Released by His Girl.

CLEVELAND, April 29.—Samuel Devio, who has been cutting quite a swell in society here for some time past, has not only been arrested on a charge of forgery but the girl to whom he was engaged to be married sent back his diamond ring and asked for her photograph.

David met Miss Mamie Langeau of Lakewood, the daughter of a wealthy business man, about a month ago. He at once began paying court to her and soon won her consent to marriage. Her father consented to the marriage and the marriage was looked forward to with interest.

When Miss Langeau heard of his arrest she at once returned his ring and asked for her photograph. David said that he was innocent of wrongdoing. He refused to discuss his relations with Miss Langeau, but said he would return her photograph.
